Destroy 18 'Copters In Viet Cong Raid

SAIGON (UPI)—A Viet Cong bomb squad blew up 18 helicopters today, killed eight Americans and wounded 10 others in a surprise attack on a Mekong Delta airbase.

Communist gunners shelled two U.S. division headquarters and three towns near Saigon.

U.S. intelligence sources said it was too early to tell whether the stepped up Communist attacks meant the Reds' long-awaited fourth offensive was underway.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, said captured Communist documents first indicated an offensive would start in December but the plan was delayed until January. Now he said the documents mentioned Tet, the lunar new year starting Feb. 17.

Abrams said 40,000 Communist troops are operating to the north and northwest of Saigon and about half of them have begun moving southward toward the capital in small groups.

The Viet Cong guerrillas cut their way through the barbed wire surrounding Can Tho airbase in the Mekong Delta 75 miles southwest of Saigon before dawn today, tossing satchels of dynamite at parked helicopters. They damaged 18 of them, some heavily, U.S. spokesmen said.

Two Americans were killed and wounded by the mortar and automatic weapons fire which the Communists used to cover the commandos.

For more than two hours the Communists traded gunfire with U.S. defenders while Air Force AC47 "spookies" planes saturated the barbed wire fence around the base with 18,000 bullets a minute from their machine guns.

The Communists finally fled into the forests leaving four dead near the base's steel airstrip. It was from Can Tho that operations like the South Vietnamese Army's recent drive to clear Communists from the U Minh forest were based. Meanwhile, the commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam said today he will not recommend sending any American troops home, "until I'm absolutely sure it's in order." But he said a cutback was inevitable.

Gen. Abrams said the decision to reduce the U.S. troop commitment should be made "Deliberately, analytically and with sound objectives. We've put too much into this (war) in terms of sacrifice to get gay with it now."

Abrams warned of Communist troop buildups northwest of Saigon and below the North-South Vietnam Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) but said, "By September, we felt their (the Communists) military campaign had run its course." He did not rule out further Red offensives.

Questioned while en route to a meeting in Saigon, the four-star general said he had no timetable for sending American troops home. He said the South Vietnamese Army was accepting more and more of the fighting load.

"I'm not going to recommend a reduction (in American troops) until I'm absolutely sure it's in order," Abrams said.

North Viets Reject New American Plan

PARIS (AP)—North Vietnam, calling a new American initiative "unacceptable," left the United States today with little hope of getting the Vietnam peace conference started in the immediate future.

The United States Sunday offered two more proposals on speaking and seating arrangements for the conference, including what a U.S. spokesman called an "important concession." The North Vietnamese delegation quickly cold-shouldered both offers.

While the word "rejected" was not used and the North Vietnamese agreed to present the proposals to their ally, the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front, a U.S. spokesman held out little hope of acceptance.

The "important concession" to which the spokesman referred involved speaking arrangements at the conference. The United States is willing to drop the idea of drawing lots for the order of speaking and permit the other side to arrange its speaking order in any way it chose, in the interest of getting the conference started.

This offer was coupled with another: That the delegations should gather around a table upon which the demarcation designating two sides would be narrowed to a simple line. This was intended to meet the North Vietnamese objection to a previous proposal for a green baize strip across a round table as "too conspicuous."

Stewardess Thwarts a Sky-Jacker

MIAMI (AP)—An attempted hijacking of a Delta Airlines jet en route to Miami from Detroit was foiled early today when a stewardess disregarded a passenger's shotgun and slammed the cabin door in his face, police said.

The attempt came hours after the victims of two weekend hijackings had returned from Cuba.

The Dade County sheriff's department said local and federal officers arrested Kenneth Earl McPeck, 31, of Orchard Lake, Mich., when the plane landed at Miami International Airport. His 3-year-old son was taken into protective custody.

Officers said they went to the airport after the plane's captain radioed the Miami airport that he had a man aboard with a shotgun.

Had Shotgun

The sheriff's department said McPeck told them he carried the shotgun aboard the plane in a duffel bag. The weapon was found under his seat, unassembled and again in the bag, the officers said.

Stewardess Lynne Sargeant of Miami Springs, Fla., told authorities she was accosted by a passenger who placed a shotgun in the pit of her stomach. The passenger told her to tell the captain he was going to Havana.

Instead, police said, Miss Sargeant slammed the door of the cockpit and locked it. The would-be hijacker apparently gave up the idea of a forced flight to Havana at that point, officers said.

Three times Sunday, airplanes swooped into Miami with victims of Saturday's two airline hijackings. The returning planes carried a band of laughing students, people bleary-eyed from loss of sleep and an airliner crew whose captor insisted on a radio message to "tell Fidel Red is coming."

A Conair jet of the Peruvian national airline—APSA—was 10 minutes out of Miami when a gun-brandishing man took over the hijacker—whose Mexican passport identified him as Jesus Amaya—told the flight crew: "My life doesn't matter. Neither do the lives of you or the passengers. I want to go to Havana."

Schieber added: "He didn't speak with a Mexican accent. He could have been anything."

Carried Students

Capt. George Wagner, 46, of Pompano Beach, Fla., turned the jet toward Havana. But a public address system failure kept him from informing his passengers. The plane carried 110 people, including about eight students en route to this country in an exchange program.

"We saw the palm trees and thought it was Miami," Maria Eugenia Gonshebb, 17, of Entre Rios, Argentina, said. "And then we saw the 'Welcome to Havana' sign."

Trude Holler, a 17-year-old Buenos Aires student bound for Long Beach, Calif., said, "I thought how awful. I thought Miami would be much nicer."

University of Havana students were bused to the airport to mingle with the Argentines.

"It was clear they were trying to propagandize us," said David Edward Kostzer. The 15-year-old from Tucuman, Argentina, will study at La Habra, Calif.

Send Plane

The Cuban and Argentine students traveled about Havana in buses then were driven to Valadero, a coastal city, to spend the night in a luxury hotel and await return to Miami aboard a chartered plane sent by the U. S. State Department.

A dozen hours after the Peruvian plane landed in Cuba a man with close-cropped red hair boarded a United Air Lines jet at Jacksonville, Fla. Shortly after it roared off toward Miami, he suggested he would like to go to Havana. A stewardess shrugged off the idea.

"I thought it was a joke," Pat Overcast of Miami Springs, Fla., related later. "A lot of passengers say that."

The man drew a revolver from a briefcase to enforce his request. "We're on our way," Capt. M. D. Guyot of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., the pilot, said.

Guyot said the man was about six feet tall, weighed about 220 pounds and "would go from extreme friendliness and rage in the same instant." He instructed the pilot to radio Havana and "tell Fidel Red is coming."

At one point the hijacker became convinced the plane was on the ground in Cuba and tried to get the crew "to open the door at 10,000 feet," Guyot said. In Havana, he popped the door open before stairs were rolled up and dangled from the ledge until Cuban militiamen helped him down.

Dep. Hardwick, who resides at 34 Wood Street, was appointed a third grade fireman on July 30, 1941 and went on duty the next day.

He served in the U.S. Army during World War II from Jan. 12, 1943 to Oct. 16, 1945. Returning to the department after the war, he was assigned to the Wiltwyck Station.

On Dec. 12, 1959 he was given a promotion to fire lieutenant, a post he held until early 1962 when he was appointed captain to succeed Capt. Joseph J. Disch who retired after 31 years service in the department.

Named Deputy in 1967

Hardwick received a provisional promotion to deputy chief in 1964 and was made deputy chief June 3, 1967. He has worked out of Central Fire Station as a command officer in charge of the Second Platoon ever since.

Now vacationing in Florida, Hardwick was honored at a testimonial dinner in mid-December given by the members of the department who worked with him in the Second Platoon. The event was held at Tommy's Restaurant.

Testimonial Planned

Another private party was given by Hardwick last week for his fellow workers and friends in the community including other retired members of the fire department.

Uniformed Fire Fighters Association, Local 461 will also honor Hardwick with a testimonial dinner in the future at a date and place to be announced.

$50,000 Loss Estimated

Vols Injured in Hyde Park Fire

By WALTER S. CLARK

HYDE PARK — Firefighters from three volunteer departments early today battled flames that roared through a 2½ story frame house and destroyed the offices of a local dentist on Route 9 opposite the Hyde Park Town Hall. Three firemen suffered smoke inhalation and one volunteer received cuts of the left hand.

The loss was unofficially estimated at $50,000, according to the Dutchess County sheriff's office.

The first was one of two serious blazes that erupted in Dutchess County. Late Saturday night a Rhinebeck tavern was swept by flames.

Sheriff Lawrence M. Quinlan said that Deputy George Rymph Jr., was on his way home from work at about 4:40 a. m. today, when he discovered smoke coming from the frame structure on Route 9 occupied on the first floor by Dr. Arthur M. Schorr, dentist. Rymph hurriedly sounded an alarm summoning Hyde Park fire units in command of Chief Kenneth Underwood to the scene.

Shooting Flames

On arrival firemen found flames shooting from the rear of the building. Hoses were quickly laid and water was poured into the burning structure. Some time later flames extended throughout the house and broke through the outer walls and roof.

Assistance was summoned from Roosevelt Fire Company and an aerial ladder truck was dispatched to assist from Hillside Fire District. Chief Underwood said that water walls were set up between the burning building and frame residences on both sides of the structure in flames.

Firefighters managed to save nearby frame homes, which were evacuated of occupants until the fire was quelled. Chief Underwood said Fireman Charles Brown sustained cuts of the hand while assisting at the blaze. Other firefighters were treated at the scene for smoke inhalation.

Total Loss

Authorities listed the building a total loss.

While fire apparatus and hoses lined blocked Route 9, traffic was rerouted by police.

Firemen were still at the scene after 10 a.m. Highway crews were called out to sand the highway that became coated with thick ice as the water from the fire scene froze.

The offices of Dr. Schorr had recently been completely renovated. The second floor of the building was not occupied.

Rhinebeck State Police and sheriff's deputies investigated fire of undetermined origin that destroyed Jeannette's Tavern on Route 9 near Rhinebeck.

Sheriff Quinlan said Rhinebeck fire companies were dispatched to the tavern at about 11:08 p.m. Saturday after fire was reported in the building. Firemen extinguished the flames and returned to their station.

Shortly before midnight, an alarm was sounded after the tavern erupted in flames that eventually destroyed the structure which had been closed for alterations, according to Quinlan. It was not immediately determined whether the earlier fire had rekindled.

The tavern was owned by Jeanette Feller of Red Hook. The origin of the blaze is under investigation. No estimate of the loss was reported.

Train Hits Car In Gardiner

By WALTER S. CLARK

GARDINER — Occupants of a car narrowly escaped serious injury at 6:40 p. m. Sunday when the vehicle was struck by the lead locomotive of five engines at the Penn-Central Railroad crossing on Route 44-55 in Gardiner. The mishap was one of a rash of traffic collisions investigated by area authorities last weekend.

Kingston State Police said a train hauled by five diesel engines and made up with 109 freight cars, stopped at the Gardiner station and the cars were "dropped off" while the engines continued on for switching of other cars.

The engineer, whose name was not available, saw a car near the crossing and he applied the brakes of the locomotive, but not in time to avoid hitting a car operated by Carmine Mele, 38, of 2427 East 1st Street, Brooklyn. The vehicle was heavily damaged. Rose Marie Mele, 11, a passenger escaped with a bump on her head.

Michael Larking of Kingston, was conductor on the freight train. A 25-year-old Highland woman was critically injured and her husband and another motorist were injured at 11:50 p. m. Saturday, when their cars collided head-on on Old New Paltz Road in the Town of Lloyd. State Police Sergeant Stanley Kowalik said Hans Muhlfeld Jr., 29, of Highland, and Earl Dillon, 43, of Milton, were drivers of the vehicles involved in the grinding crash. Muhlfeld's wife, Janice, suffered severe lacerations and head injuries. She was taken to Vassar Hospital for treatment and later transferred to the New York Medical Center.

Muhlfeld was treated at the Poughkeepsie hospital for facial cuts. Dillon received lacerations of the head. He also was treated and later cited by Highland State Police for driving while intoxicated. Troopers said the Muhlfeld car was west-bound and Dillon was traveling east when his car reportedly crossed into the opposite lane and the two cars collided head-on.

A two-car collision on East Chester Street at Flatbush Avenue at 4:10 p. m. Sunday injured four persons, according to Kingston police who reported the cars were driven by Fred D. Smith Jr., 50, of North Drive, Saugerties, and Caroline Bonelli, 40, of Glasco. Police reports noted that Smith was driving south on East Chester Street and the Bonelli vehicle was going east on Flatbush Avenue, when the crash occurred.

Smith was cited by police for passing a red traffic light. The Glasco woman was treated at Kingston Hospital for shock and later released.

Dies in Crash

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI) — Mary Ann Medynski, 20, died Sunday in a two-car crash at Broadway and Wilson street.

POLE STOPS CAR — Kingston police investigated a traffic accident shortly before 8:30 p. m. Saturday which involved this car. Police reports noted that Walter Harden, 36, of 90 Cedar Street, was driving east on East Chester Street when the vehicle went out of control and slammed into a utility pole at East Chester Street Extension. Police said Harden apparently escaped injury but he was booked for driving while intoxicated and operating without a license. The summonses were returnable before City Judge Hubert A. Richter. Local Clergymen Back Drive For Martin Luther King Day Kingston area clergymen have joined a national drive to honor Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. on Jan. 15 and to have that date, Dr. King's birthday, made a national holiday.

The successor to Dr. King, The Rev. Dr. Ralph Abernathy, President of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, has urged the national community in general and the black community in particular to observe the birthday of the assassinated civil rights leader on Jan. 15.

Local Service

A group of Kingston ministers has made arrangements for a memorial service on that day to honor Dr. King and to support Dr. Abernathy in his drive to persuade President-elect Richard M. Nixon to encourage Congress to establish Jan. 15 as a legal holiday.

Petitions have been distributed to the religious congregations in the Kingston area in an effort to assist in a national drive to obtain an estimated one million signatures.

The memorial service for Dr. King is to be conducted at the Franklin Street AME Zion Church Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Clergymen for the Kingston area will participate and the Rev. Robert W. Dixon, pastor of the Central Baptist Church of Salt Point, will speak.

The Rev. Mr. Dixon, an employee of International Business Machines is currently chairman of the Neighborhood Model City Group of Poughkeepsie and also chairman of the Black Unity Council of Poughkeepsie.

Arrangements for the service are being made by the host pastor, the Rev. Paul McGuire and chairman of the project the Rev. John Gilmore, pastor of the Riverview Baptist Church.

The Reason

The Rev. Gilmore offered this answer as to the reason for the drive and the memorial services: "For years the blacks of America have always remembered George Washington, Lincoln and many of our great Americans. For years there were no black leaders so honored, as to have a legal holiday. Many made great contributions to the growth of this country."

Of Dr. King, he said, "Black men all over the world will never forget this great man, who said the day before he was killed: 'Like anybody, I would like to live a long life. Longevity has its place. But, I'm not concerned about that now. I've looked over and I've seen the Promised Land. I may not get there with you, but I want you

Youth, Teener Charged in Trumpet Theft

TOWN OF KINGSTON—A 20-year-old and a teenager of Red Hook were apprehended Saturday on grand larceny charges in connection with the theft of a $295 trumpet from Kingston Music Center on Jan. 7.

William G. Rosborough, 20 of South Broadway, Red Hook was charged with grand larceny, third degree and the 15-year-old will be petitioned to Family Court.

Rosborough was arraigned before Town of Kingston Justice Robert A. Ferrigan and the case adjourned to Wednesday 8 p.m. for a preliminary hearing.

The arrest was by Sheriff's Office Investigator Harold T. Bowers and State Police BCI Investigators John F. Salter and Frank Hallock.

Investigator Bowers said the pair acting in concert each aiding and abetting the other stole a Conn trumpet from the Kingston Music Center. The trumpet was recovered from a local pawn shop, Bowers said.

their pattern, went to work today on settlements on a port by port basis to end a 24-day-old walkout which has tied up ships along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

Federal mediator David Cole said he expected the New York Shipping Association and the union to come to terms today and while "some problems" would be encountered at other ports, the path would be smoothed by the master agreement.

"We are on the road now to a settlement," Cole said.

The strike, called by the union Dec. 20 when a back-to-work injunction obtained under the Taft Hartley Act expired, idled 75,000 longshoremen and tied ships from Maine to Texas. The master agreement was reached Sunday night and included the thorny issue of containerization, the handling of giant, bulk containers loaded directly onto trucks. A dispute over containerization triggered a strike in the port of Boston even before the current contract expired Oct. 1 and also caused shippers in Boston and Philadelphia to walk out of the talks, maintaining they would settle the issue locally.

Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore shippers also maintained the money terms discussed made the pact too costly but they approved Sunday's agreement, Cole said.

It provided an economic package totaling $1.60 an hour in wages and fringe benefits over a three year period and a guaranteed annual income. Shippers originally had offered a 98 cent an hour wage increase to the dock workers, who now average $3.62 an hour, and wages were not a critical issue in the negotiations. The containerization clauses provides that any bulk crate either coming from or destined for a point within a 50 mile radius of the port will be packed by local dockworkers at regular pay. A union official said this provision would insure that longshoremen will not lose work as more and more ships are modified to handle the large containers.

Could Trigger Congress Battle

Many Think Nixon Will Try to Kill OEO

WASHINGTON (UPI)—storm-tossed antipoverty agency, the Office of Economic Opportunity. Only one Congressman, Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, was ready to predict out loud that Nixon would seek to "scuttle" OEO. But Nixon's failure to date to designate a new OEO director and the total absence of rumors about who might get the job has others speculating that the antipoverty agency may be marked for extinction.

However, no one seems to think that the Nixon administration would try to wipe out all the antipoverty programs started under President Johnson. Instead, the guessing is that the most popular of the programs would be farmed out to other agencies, leaving OEO with nothing to do.

Emphasizing that he had no official word on the matter, Ayres said he believed Nixon planned to leave Bertrand M. Harding, OEO's second director in its four-year life, on the job for the time being.

"Then I think he's going to try to scuttle it," said Ayres, senior Republican member of the House Education and Labor Committee. Ayres said he thought Congress would go along if Nixon called for the abolition of OEO.

The incident occurred during the Friars Club card cheating trial. An attorney saw a portion of a transcript of secret grand jury testimony on the defense table near Cooper.

The 65-year-old lawyer was ordered before the grand jury to answer 45 questions about the incident or be cited for contempt of court. He appeared in closed session after vowing he would go to jail rather than betray a confidential client-attorney relationship.

Ident make sweeping changes in poverty and other welfare and food programs, including a dismantling of the OEO. The Post said the proposals, endorsed by Nixon, would require legislative action that could keep Congress busy "for many months."

Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., House manager of the anti-poverty bill in two sessions, also believes Nixon probably would win if he made a strong pitch to kill the antipoverty agency. But he thought the new administration would decide against such a course if it looked carefully into recent changes made in the antipoverty program.

Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., another veteran of antipoverty battles in the House, opposes killing OEO but predicted Republicans would back the president if he made the request. He suggested this might make it tougher to abolish OEO by "handing" the Democrats an issue to fight the White House.

Dems. Won't Rally But neither Gibbons nor Chairman Carl Perkins, D-Ky., of the House Education and Labor Committee had any confidence that their party would rally to the defense of the poverty agency as a matter of ideological loyalty to the Johnson administration.

Perkins, recalling strong anti-OEO feeling among many Southern Democrats, said "there would be the same away with the operating agency factions as before" within his party. But the chairman, who

Harris Stirs Talks as a 'Sleeper'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Selection of Fred Harris as Democratic national chairman — a prospect enhanced by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's weekend endorsement — would provide a broader national stage for an Oklahoma senator with star quality.

The folksy, good-looking Harris, who parts his dark hair down the middle, is a solid member of the Senate Establishment while maintaining firm ties among liberals. He already has stirred talk as a possible "sleeper" candidate for the 1972 presidential nomination.

Humphrey made official Saturday his suspected preference for Harris to succeed Lawrence F. O'Brien when the Democratic National Committee meets Tuesday. As titular head of the party, Humphrey's choice is almost certain to be accepted.

"I hope he will have your support," the vice president told the committee in a telegram. "I appreciate the vice president's recommendation," said Harris in a statement. "I am grateful for the enthusiastic support of the national committee members and prominent Democrats from throughout the country."

While the 38-year-old senator, who worked his way from a farm boy to a Phi Beta Kappa key, indicated he had not made a final decision, one of his aides left little doubt that he would accept. "Chances are good that he is not going to say no if the committee wants him," the aide said.

Among other things, the chairman's job offers a chance to share credit with Humphrey for bringing about party reforms that the vice president says are needed to regain the White House.

Humphrey's telegram of endorsement followed separate meetings he held Thursday with Harris and former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina.

Sanford announced his withdrawal over the weekend and was replaced in dark horse speculation by New Jersey Gov. Richard Hughes.

After four years of doing his homework and earning membership in the Senate Club by not rocking the boat, Harris got some national stature last year when he was co-chairman of the Humphrey campaign along with Minnesota Sen. Walter Mondale.

His joining the Humphrey camp reportedly miffed the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy to whom Harris had been close.

Harris, described by aides as "high strung" and who has been known to put away more than two packs of cigarettes a day, came to the Senate in 1964.

He whipped the well-known football coach, Bud Wilkinson, for the seat vacated by the death of Robert S. Kerr and won election to a full term in 1967.

A favorite game in Washington in the months after any general election is to speculate on winners or others who distinguish themselves in the campaign as possible presidential timbers.

A dual role as senator and party spokesman combined with scrappiness and a good television style could put the name Harris right up there along with Kennedy, Muskie, Humphrey and McCarthy when the guessing begins in earnest.

New York Rep. Adam Clayton Powell made just such a point in a television interview Sunday when he called Harris a "sleeper" possibility for 1972.

"He's smart," said Powell. "He's young."

There's another point that makes Harris an attractive choice for the chairmanship.

Although O'Brien suggested a fulltime committee chairman might be best for the party, selection of a senator would help Democratic congressional leaders keep control of shaping opposition policy while the GOP holds the White House.

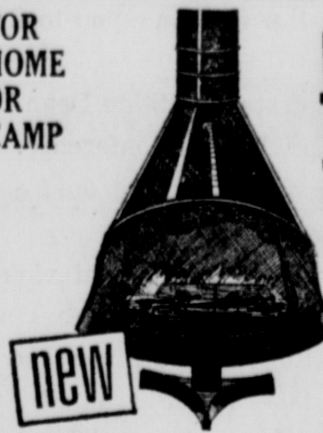

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said last week he wants to keep the policy initiative in Congress and is opposed to revival of the liberal advisory group that sprung up during the Eisenhower years. That group was often at odds with the Democratic congressional leadership.

Struck Parked Car

George A. Shufeldt, 40, of Kings Highway, Lake Katrine, was cited by Kingston police Sunday, after his car reportedly struck a parked vehicle on Lucas Avenue. Shufeldt was scheduled to appear in city court to face a charge of failure to change his address on a driver's license. The parked vehicle was owned by Carol Julia Smith of 124 Lucas Avenue. Shufeldt told police that he lost control when bright headlights of an oncoming car flashed in his face.

Czech Trade Unions Backing the Reforms

PRAGUE (UPI)—Czechoslovakia's trade unions today showed increasing signs they are ready to use their strength to try to preserve the Communist reforms that brought the Soviet Bloc invasion. The printers union Sunday refused to set in type a magazine carrying anti-reform articles.

The printers union also said it would work to "achieve unity of action" through alliance with the nation's metalworkers, students, journalists and intellectuals.

Communist party official Cestmir Cisar agreed with the rebellious printers that the

Police Issue Summonses to Local Drivers

Kingston police issued numerous summonses during the weekend, citing motorists for traffic violations.

Judy A. Peterson, 20, of Miller's Lane, was summoned to appear in City court for exceeding the speed limit on Main Street, and operating an unregistered motor vehicle. She was booked at 2:55 a.m. today.

Joseph A. Matoli Jr., 27, of 14 Ora Place, was summoned for speeding and unsafe starting. Andrew M. Bahl, 17, of 645 Jean Place, was cited for driving an unregistered motor vehicle, insufficient lights and operating an uninspected car.

Judson E. Hornbeck Sr., of Port Ewen, was booked for speeding and unsafe starting. Paul S. Holm, 20, of Oceanside, was summoned for failure to keep to the right.

content of the magazine Tribuna was of "disputable" content. The printers said the magazine's publishers had agreed to revisions in the text. Prague Radio said the printers at their weekend meeting passed resolutions defying Slovak Communist party leader

Gustav Husak, who had demanded muzzling of the press and a stop to those "plotting against the party."

The printers said publishing of the first edition of Tribuna, the new magazine of the Czech branch of the Communist party, had been delayed for a week because it was believed that this agricultural state would provide needed impetus to push action in other states.

Attempts to Ban DDT May Set Precedent for All Farm States

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—Conservationists and environmental scientists have come from around the nation in an attempt to get the pesticide DDT labeled too dangerous to use in Wisconsin.

If they succeed in this heavily agricultural state, similar moves are likely in other states of the nation, causing farmers to stop using DDT and switch to other pesticides.

Bringing a petition before the State Natural Resources Department are the Isaak Walton League and the Citizens Natural Resources Association. After two weeks of testimony in December, a recess was called to the quasijudicial hearing.

As the hearing resumed today, at least 19 more witnesses were to be called. Some of them are scientists from across the nation.

Opponents of the chemical want the department to rule DDT an environmental contaminant and to ban its use because it is dangerous to animals and man. Wisconsin was selected for the case because it was believed that this agricultural state would provide needed impetus to push action in other states.

Rusk's Swan Song

Q. Looking back over the eight years is the world a worse or a better place to live in—since you took this office?

This question was put to Secretary of State Dean Rusk at what might be his last formal press conference. His answer showed that the priority of his long tenure was the survival of the United States.

A. I think there is a broad recognition that violence must be restrained, and we have had eight years without a nuclear war, and I attach great importance to that, although most people take it for granted. One can't take it for granted. It takes a lot of doing to be able to make that decision.

I see general trends throughout the world that are hopeful in character. I believe that over time there is going to be some reduction in the sharpest ideological confrontations and conflicts that we have seen in this post-war period.

One of the things that I may find a chance to comment on after I leave office is the myth of the world's policemen. There is just no truth in the suggestion that somehow we look upon ourselves as the country that is supposed to go around everywhere in the world tidying up all the disputes that occur or intervening in them.

I had one study that indicated that in the last 400 crises of one sort or another involving the use of violence, we were involved in about six of them. We don't go around looking for business. But we are committed to those situations which are considered to be in the vital interest of the United States and those are recorded in our solemn treaty commitments.

That was not only a summary of Rusk's own performance, but thumbnail summary of United States foreign policy under him, as he hands the torch to his successor, William P. Rogers. For eight years, Rusk helped to keep the world from going up in a nuclear cloud. He deserves a "well done" from his fellow citizens.

Wave of Area Fires

The large number of disastrous fires in the area so far this winter is proof that greater precautions must be taken in not giving fire a place to start.

With the temperature dropping to the near zero mark, there is a tendency on the part of many householders to employ additional heating units and to push heating facilities to their limits in order to keep homes comfortable.

Any type of heating equipment can be dangerous if not properly installed, maintained and operated. It is not the stoves themselves, but lack of maintenance and the misuse, most of which stems from ignorance, that causes fires.

Most of these types of fires can be prevented if a few simple rules are followed.

Heaters should not be placed near combustible surfaces—clothing, paint, papers, trash or other flammable material.

A portable heater should be placed on a level space and in a location where there is a minimum of danger that it will be knocked over and never leave the heater burning when there is no one at home.

It is good to be warm these wintry days, but essential to be safe.

One Big, Happy Family?

David Lawrence Says

Wartime Economy Calls For Wage, Price Controls

WASHINGTON—Who is running the national economy today? The government is trying to do it, directly and indirectly by pushing up the interest rates so as to curtail borrowing and slow down the "boom" which has brought inflation. But the truth is there has been too much dependence on the voluntary action of individual groups in business, finance and labor, without much thought about the need for legislative restrictions such as have been applied heretofore during wartime.

When the Federal Reserve Board tightens money and banks push up their prime rate of interest to 7 per cent, the cost of borrowing tends to discourage purchases of houses and automobiles as well as the construction of new facilities by industry.

Theoretically, this squeeze on credit is expected to check the boom and halt the inflation, even though it is recognized that when credit brakes are applied too tightly, the economy is sometimes pushed into a recession, with a decline in business, a rise in unemployment and a drop in profits.

It is being argued, however, that high interest rates can be reduced overnight when healthy conditions are restored. Suggestions are being heard that, if necessary, the 10 per cent surtax, which is supposed to expire automatically on June 30, be allowed to lapse without renewal, and that this would provide more spending money. Congress probably will not act until it gets a recommendation from Mr. Nixon next spring.

Unfortunately, the rise in the cost of living and the upward movement of the wage-price spiral are not related to any single factor such as interest rates. Also, the "take-home" pay of many millions of workers in America has been adversely affected, not merely by the increase in federal taxes but by the higher taxes paid for social security as well as the upward trend in state and city taxes.

The average worker is concerned primarily with what he has left after all the deductions for taxes have been made by the employer. The dollar is worth far less today than it was ten years ago. If prices continue to rise, labor's demands will naturally grow larger.

Approximately 28 billion dollars out of a budget of 184 billion is being spent to carry on the war in Vietnam. This means a considerable flow of public funds into the business world, and it is one of the reasons why unemployment figures have dropped.

In order to manage the American economy in wartime, when so many extra billions of dollars are being spent by the government, it becomes necessary to apply wage-and-price controls. This is unpopular politically. Labor unions usually object, and they have a powerful voice on Capitol Hill. But if wages and prices are not controlled, they can reach unmanageable levels, and the situation will not be helped very much by merely increasing interest rates on borrowed money.

Higher tax revenues, together with some reduction in federal spending, indicate a budget surplus of about one billion dollars in the current fiscal year, compared with a twenty-five-billion-dollar deficit in the previous year. But the surtax imposed last June did not slow down the economy in the second half of 1968, and the boom began to pick up momentum, with prices rising at the fastest rate in 17 years. So the surtax did not attain its objective.

The Federal Reserve Board, which had eased credit after passage of the surtax, reversed itself in December. It reduced bank reserves available for lending and raised discount rates. As a result, commercial banks have found it necessary to increase their rates to the public—to a record of 7 per cent for "prime" loans.

What is not often realized is that public confidence is perhaps the most important element in managing the national economy and that, once this confidence is impaired, a recession of substantial proportions can follow. This is really what happened in the 1930's despite the attempts to use constructive measures to overcome the adverse developments in the national economy.

It is this kind of situation which officials here recognize as one of the risks involved in tampering with the economy. Thus far, there is a feeling of optimism in Washington based on a belief that the remedial measures will be effective and that slowing the economy will not bring too big a rise in unemployment.

Drew Pearson Says Black Students Harass Liberal Colleges With Their Demands

WASHINGTON—On December 23, black students in several well known liberal colleges issued peremptory demands on their college presidents which had all the earmarks of a revolutionary conspiracy.

The colleges selected were Swarthmore, outside Philadelphia; Brandeis University, outside Boston; and Pembroke College, outside Providence. The letters were similar to the unreasonable demands made at San Francisco State College, and followed the general revolutionary pattern set last year by Berlin students when they stormed the offices of Axel Springer, the anti-communist publisher.

Simultaneously Samuel R. Jordan Jr., convicted of attempting to blow up Selective Service Headquarters 83, 84 and 85 at Lancaster, Pa., and well known as a black revolutionary, turned up at Swarthmore, though not a student there, to inspire trouble. He worked with Fania Davis, a Negro senior, who has publicly stated she intends to foment revolution after she graduates in February.

Jordan is out on bond, pending appeal on the interesting claim that Molotov cocktails which he tossed into the Lancaster draft board are not "explosive." Why Lancaster authorities have permitted Jordan to be at large to stir up revolutionary activities elsewhere is not known.

The letter submitted to the college presidents was signed at Swarthmore by Clinton Ethridge, a Negro senior who is head of the Swarthmore African-American Students, and it began with a salute to President Courtney Smith: "Merry Christmas!" It then warned that unless Smith accepted publicly and unequivocally certain "non-negotiable" demands by noon, January 7, "we will take action to see that they are accepted."

Problem of Enlisting Negroes

The demands to admit more Negroes, ironically, were quite similar to plans which a faculty committee on admissions had been formulating in order to encourage more Negro students to attend. However, when the demands were presented in the form of non-negotiable threats, the ultimatum was turned down, and one day after the deadline of noon, January 7, passed, the black militants at Swarthmore chainlocked the door on the administration building and took over the administrative offices of the college.

Simultaneously, members of the faculty received 15 telegrams from Bayard Rustin, the Negro leader, all in identical language, asking for acceptance of the demands. Rustin, a former member of the Young Communist League, has of late been one of the more moderate Negro leaders.

Ironically, Swarthmore, Bryn Mawr, Brandeis, Harvard, Haverford and a long list of other colleges have been doing their best to encourage Negro enrollment. However, the problem has been to secure Negroes who can meet scholastic requirements. Generous scholarships are available for Negro students. In fact, Negroes occupy a privileged position when it comes to entering Ivy League colleges, and have far more economic opportunity than white students. However, deans of admission have taken the position that there is no use admitting an unprepared Negro student who is likely to flunk out in his first year.

Talent scouts have gone out, as in the days when Ivy League colleges were recruiting football players, to try to enlist qualified Negroes. Last year, Wesleyan offered a scholarship to a well qualified Negro girl only to be outbid by the University of West Virginia, which offered the girl an over-all expense allowance of $4,500 annually.

Swarthmore, a year ago, spotted a well qualified Negro boy only to have him taken away by Harvard, which offered him a more liberal scholarship.

Following the ultimatums handed to colleges before Christmas, authorities sat down with the black power leaders to explain their hope of admitting more Negroes, but also the scarcity of qualified Negroes. They were told by the black power group in Swarthmore to look South and West.

Actually Bryn Mawr has sent some talent scouts to the West Coast, only to find that Reed College in Oregon, and Occidental and Pomona Colleges in California are also recruiting Negro students. Few are to be found. In the South, Atlanta University and other institutions are also on the alert for qualified Negroes. Mayor Ivan of Atlanta has stated that Negro graduates have ample opportunities available, and that he has been seeking 400 Negro high school graduates for the Atlanta fire and police departments.

Peremptory Demand

Despite this, the African-American students at Swarthmore peremptorily demanded the dismissal of Dean of Admissions Frederick Hargadon for failure to admit more Negroes.

The great majority of students at these colleges has been out of sympathy with the militant black minority; likewise, the majority of the faculties. Clinton Ethridge, the black power leader at Swarthmore, is certain to flunk, and also certain to claim he's being discriminated against. Real reason he is certain to flunk is that he has devoted so little time to his studies.

Samuel Jordan, the convicted Molotov cocktail thrower, was a senior at Franklin and Marshall College in Pennsylvania who, at 2:42 a.m. May 10, 1968, was seen by police with other Negro students departing from Lancaster with arms, and material for Molotov cocktails. At 3 a.m. Jordan was arrested, and found to be carrying a loaded .38 revolver and Molotov cocktail ingredients. A search warrant was sworn out, and his apartment was found to contain various ingredients for incendiary bombs. Jordan was the leader of the Franklin and Marshall Afro-American Society. He was convicted September 20, then turned up at Swarthmore recently to direct revolutionary activities there.

Career Men to Give Nixon Expertise on Prime Issue

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—It is now clear the Nixon administration will depend heavily on craftsmen in high places.

This would seem to confirm predictions that Nixon will seek pragmatic rather than doctrinaire solutions to hairy foreign, defense and domestic problems.

Take the State and Defense Departments as examples:

The reliance on craftsmen is seen in the unprecedented appointment of veteran foreign service officer U. Alexis Johnson to the No. 3 post in the State Department and the selection of career diplomat Robert Yost as ambassador to the United Nations.

It is seen again in the appointment of David Packard, head of Hewlett-Packard electronics, as deputy secretary of defense and scientist Robert C. Seamans, former deputy chief of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, as secretary of the Air Force.

It is apparent in the reappointment of the skilled negotiator, Ellsworth Bunker, as ambassador to South Vietnam and the selection of Henry Cabot Lodge, former ambassador to the United Nations and two-time ambassador to South Vietnam, as chief negotiator with Hanoi in Paris.

Except for Lodge, these men are professionals in their fields, not politicians. Lodge, of late, by his considerable service in Vietnam, the United Nations and West Germany, has also become a professional.

In addition, President-elect Nixon has made it clear Secretary of State-designate William Rogers was picked in considerable measure because of his technical skill at negotiating.

Taken together, these appointments have significance.

In his Defense and State Department selections, Nixon is bringing the United States closer to the British and Japanese systems. In those countries, permanent undersecretaries provide continuity and great technical skills at high levels of the government, regardless of the party in power. With some noted exceptions, the British have been known over the centuries for their pragmatic approach to foreign and defense problems.

In foreign affairs at this time, pragmatic professionalism may be just what is needed.

For despite their doctrinaire fixations, Leonid Brezhnev, Ho Chi Minh and Mao Tse-tung are quite pragmatic men in their own way, especially when faced with serious problems.

Each of these men has an uncanny ability to find doctrinaire reasons for whatever practical solutions they decide on.

At present, all three are temporarily overextended and need some relaxation.

But it will take highly skilled, hard-headed practical U.S. negotiators to winnow grain from the chaff and prevent the United States from being "taken" by these experienced opponents.

New Left Counts Self In WASHINGTON (NEA)—Some of the color in Washington's upcoming inaugural weekend may be provided by people the new administration would just as soon stayed home.

Peace groups plan "counter-inauguration" ceremonies to dramatize their demands to "end the war and black repression."

Demonstrators will line the parade route, although New Leftist Rennie Davis said if a permit is granted they would prefer to cluster in a pre-designated spot to display their placards. During inauguration ceremonies they intend to stage their own "in-hoguration," installing the pig of Yippies in nomination by the Yippies in Chicago.

Also planned is a "counter-inaugural ball," described by Davis as "no Guy Lombardo affair."

Counter-ball music will be

The Fugs and folksingers Judy Collins and Phil Ochs.

No violence intended.

"We're not going to disrupt the inauguration in any way," explained David Dellinger, co-chairman of the National Mobilization for Peace. "We do not anticipate a Chicago-type confrontation, and will do nothing to bring that about."

TIMELY QUOTES

The best time to listen to a politician is when he's on a stump on a street corner in the rain late at night when he's exhausted. Then he doesn't lie.

—Historian Theodore H. White.

The consumer . . . is constantly bombarded by fiercely competing advertising claims aimed primarily at luring his loyalties from one brand of product to another, or making him yearn for something he did not want before. Is it any wonder he winds up with a feeling of hostility and suspicion?

—George R. Vela, chairman and president of Uniroyal Inc.

I believe it will be a disaster of major proportions if we delude those who need help into believing that business can solve all of the nation's social problems all by itself.

—John E. Swearingen, chairman of Standard Oil of Indiana.

There is an overwhelming tendency in education to believe that somehow, if student just learn more, the quality of the education would be higher—which I don't believe. Students have almost no leisure. I believe that if students had more leisure to talk, more leisure to go to the library—if only just to prove that a teacher is wrong—this alone would be a tremendous education.

—Bergan Evans, author, lexicographer and professor of English at Northwestern University.

A Look at Problems Besetting Britain

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of three dispatches in which a distinguished British diplomatic writer takes a look at the problems besetting his country.

By MALCOLM RUTHERFORD

LONDON—Britain, they say, is sick and foreigners even have coined a special term for the disease. They call it "English Sickness" and some of those who have lived with it know that it has gone on so long it begins to look incurable.

Every little upset, at home or abroad, it seems, can be enough to blow the economy off course, in the official and current phrase. An outsider might be forgiven for wondering if the economy has not been blown off course so often that the country no longer really knows which course is being charted.

Withal, and despite the recurrent crisis with which Britain has been plagued since the end of World War II, there is very little visible evidence of any crisis in Britain today.

London is more prosperous, more cosmopolitan, more "swinging" than ever before. There is hardly a city or town in the country that is not having its old heart pulled down to be replaced by modern office blocks, shops and apartments.

Holidays Abroad

Consumer goods proliferate. So does the taste for holidays abroad, despite an official travel allowance of only 30 pounds sterling a year ($120) for countries outside the sterling area. Unemployment is low, at least by the standards of other countries. British fashion leads the world.

Reminders of crisis, however, come regularly once a month.

Britain alone in the world promptly publishes its monthly trade figures, and the tale they tell is one of continuing though fluctuating deficit in visible trade. It is not that exports are falling—on the contrary they frequently set new records. But imports are rising even faster. Publication of a bad set of figures can lead to a run on the pound ultimately to a need for new foreign credits, inevitably accompanied by further restrictions at home, and in November, 1967, even to devaluation of the pound. Economic squeeze has followed economic squeeze in an effort to check this pattern, so far without producing a permanent cure.

Political Pressures

And the sickness of which people speak apparently extends to politics too. Economic weakness leads to outside political pressures.

Britain today, for example, is SWINGING PROOF—Despite what foreigners call "English Sickness," there is very little visible evidence of any crisis in Britain today. London is more prosperous, more cosmopolitan, more "swinging" than ever before. As proof of the "swinging" claim for London, model Lise King struts about in Parliament Square wearing an ultra-miniskirt and long white boots. (UPI TELEPHOTO) the target of sustained verbal attacks from the Soviet Union. Nor is it just the big guns like the Soviet Union which treat Britain this way. Argentina at this moment is relentlessly pushing a claim, which has no foundation in law, to the British colony of the Falkland Islands in the Atlantic. Despite the fact that the 2,000-odd islanders remain British, it is clear that the British government has seriously considered giving way.

General Francisco Franco's Spain is demanding Gibraltar and is conducting a virtual blockade of "The Rock" until it gets it. Despite the fact that a recent plebiscite showed that only 12 out of 170,000 Gibraltarians were in favor of a change of sovereignty, moves for ending British rule command an impressive majority in the United Nations.

The decline of a once great power to this position has of course been gradual and seems dramatic only now that its extent is finally being appreciated.

No Competition

At the end of the 19th Century Britain seemed to lead the world because there was an absence of competition. When competition eventually came, from countries, having greater natural resources, were inevitably better placed. At least one weakness, for example, in the British trading position is inherent. This is the heavy dependence on imported foodstuffs. Not one of Britain's industrial competitors has the same handicap.

It means, quite simply, that Britain has to export that much more manufactured goods just to get up to its competitors' starting point. The massive deficit on the visible trade account was nearly always present. In 1938 it stood at more than 300 million pounds ($720 million at today's exchange rate), a gap that ought to be regarded as serious enough even today. It was covered then by "invisible" earnings by the returns on foreign investment, by acting as shipper to the world. It is just here that competition has made itself felt though there has been a welcome recovery in "invisible" earnings in the past year.

And of course there was the traumatic effect of World War II. The power which led and did most for the opposition to Hitler emerged at the end in a world of emergent superpowers, and to find that even the European powers it had so dominated were shortly to make a miraculous recovery while Britain did not.

It would have been hard for any country feeling so justifiably proud of itself to adapt to so changed a situation. For Britain the adaptation nearly 25 years later is still not quite complete.

Dinner is at 6:30 in the Garden Lounge at the hotel. Dr. Kriessman's speech is planned for 7:45. Dinner reservations may be made by contacting C. W. Williams, A. M. Dumas, L. S. PLANS NO CHANGES — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr., wearing dark suit, black turtle neck sweater and gold chain and medallion, said on a television show in New York Sunday that he has no intention of acting any differently in Congress, now, than he did before he was ousted on charges of misbehavior two years ago. Powell said he intends to do "no more, no less" than every member of the House, adding, "Why should I be different than they are? because I'm black?" (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Another Win for Rome Cops In Hunt for Sardinian Mob

ROME (AP)—Police chalked up one more victory in the hunt for Sardinian bandits when agents sprang a girl-baited trap in a Rome bar.

Police Sgt. Cagliari Sardinia, and Rome seized Gesuino Casula, 29, in a bar near the University of Rome Sunday evening.

He offered no resistance, police said, but they reported taking a knife from his pocket.

The arrest of Casula—under sentence in absentia for carrying warlike weapons and suspected of helping in many Sardinian kidnappings—touched off a search for other bandit figures thought to be in Rome and Genoa.

Casula's capture came after female police agents put under surveillance the apartment of his Roman girl friend and the bar which she manages. They kept track of Casula's comings and goings until male police caught him off guard.

The girl friend, Nunzia Speculatore, also was arrested and charged with aiding and abetting Casula.

Police say they think Casula was linked to the kidnapping of industrialist Luigi Moralis, seized by bandits in Sardinia last March 15 and released 32 days later. Casula, one police conjecture went, may have been assigned by bandit chiefs to collect ransom on the mainland from families of kidnap victims.

Casula's home province of Nuoro released the balance sheet for 1968 in the grim war between bandits and police: Nuoro counted 15 homicides last year, against 21 in 1967 and five kidnappings, against 10 in 1967. On the other side of the ledger, police slew four notable Sardinian bandits in running gunfights: Antonio Mario Sio, Jan. 1; Basilio Floris, March 18; student-bandit Gianni Pirari, April 23; and Pasquale Pau, Oct. 4. And they captured three other notorious bandits alive.

Man Charged With Theft Of Two Coats

Michael Christoforo, 31, of 83 St. James Street, appeared today before City Judge Hubert A. Richter on two charges of petit larceny involving alleged thefts of coats from local business places. Police said the man was arrested Saturday afternoon. He was accused of taking a coat from Yallum's and another from London's Store. Today, Judge Richter fixed bail at $2,500 cash on the complaint involving London's and $500 on the other larceny count. In lieu of bail, Christoforo was committed to the county jail. The case was adjourned until Jan. 15.

A CONTRAST—Photo shows slum dwellings on Detroit's Near East Side, in contrast with tall glass and concrete structures of which much of the city is composed. In the 155-block Near East Side slum area, the mortality rate among infants is 69 out of every 1,000 babies born. The rate for the U.S. as a whole is 22.1 per 1,000 births. For the entire city of Detroit, it is 27.8 per 1,000 births. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Negro Infants

Mortality Rate High in Detroit

DETROIT (UPI)—In the shadows of Detroit's glittering concrete and glass LaFayette towers, home of doctors, lawyers, politicians and the "beautiful people," 69 babies die out of every 1,000 born.

The babies live and die in 155 blocks of grime on Detroit's Near East Side. The area is 98.6 per cent Negro. Many of its inhabitants were squeezed into those blocks when the LaFayette towers were built 10 years ago.

The infant mortality rate (infants are defined as children one year old or younger) for the United States is 22.1 per 1,000 births. For the city of Detroit, it is 27.8.

On a worldwide spectrum, the infant mortality rate ranges from 161 per 1,000 in Turkey to 13.3 in Sweden. Costa Rica, where about half the population is illiterate, measures out even with the Near East Side of Detroit at 69.

Why do almost 7 per cent of Near East Side's babies die?

Lawrence Chadzynski, who compiled these figures, thinks a principal reason is that many of the people in the area live in dwellings little better than garages.

Chadzynski is project director of a program called "Evidence For Health Organization (ECHO). His researchers are going through the city house by house to find how living conditions affect the health of each area's residents. (ECHO has completed a survey of the model cities area, which several years ago was tagged for wholesale urban renewal). The over-all area is 78 per cent non-white and has an infant mortality rate of 45.3 per 1,000.

Within them model cities tract is the Near East Side with the 69 per 1,000 death rate for infants. Another pocket there has a rate of 63.7.

Chadzynski cites illegitimacy as a principal factor in the high infant mortality rates among Negroes. During the past year, there were 5,271 illegitimate births in Detroit. Slightly less than 1,000 of these were white babies. Within the model cities area, 39 per cent of all black children born were illegitimate. In a wealthy white area on the northeast side, 3.8 per cent of the children were illegitimate. That area had the lowest infant mortality rate.

"A lot of the children in those (poverty) areas are illegitimate and unwanted," Chadzynski says.

Dr. Margaret Zolliker, an infant specialist, says many babies die because the mothers don't get prenatal care. "In one typical case, a woman first went for a checkup in her seventh month, and saw a doctor three times after that," she said. "Her baby died of bronchial pneumonia when it was six weeks old. There was no heat in the house."

"It's not just illegitimacy," Chadzynski said. "Once the baby's born, he lives the first few months of his life—if he lives so long—in a place that's dirty, probably has had bad plumbing, no heat, a poor refrigerator. How can a mother take care of the child?"

Statistics would seem to bear him out. The five leading causes of death in Detroit are heart diseases, malignant growths, problems of the nervous system, accidents and diabetes.

But in the city's three poorest sections, pneumonia is one of the five leading causes of death. "Until the inner city is cleaned up, until buildings are made livable, the poor will continue to pay a high toll in infant deaths," Chadzynski said.

In accepting his new office, President McCullough pledged his administration to continue community service for which the club has been known, and to stress the 1969 Kiwanis International theme—"Stand Up For Freedom."

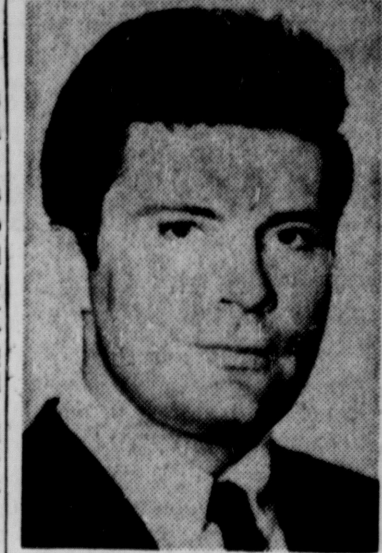

A 35 year perfect attendance record was noted at the luncheon with the presentation of a pin to member Joseph Stout by President-elect McCullough, Fred Van Duesen with 26 years and George Matthews with a following of 25 years.

Following Stout's record-breaking achievement came 25-year unbroken attendance. Other 100 per cent awards for attendance were given to Hubert Hoderath 18, Raymond Myers 15, Harlow DeForest, John McCullough, John Spinnenweber and Robert Wiley with 14; Henry P. Full Embassy in Cuba Second Swedish Swipe STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Sweden announced today it will upgrade its diplomatic mission in Cuba to a full embassy.

It was the second diplomatic swipe at the United States in four days. Sweden became the first Western European nation to extend full diplomatic recognition to North Vietnam Friday. The new embassy in Havana will be headed by a charge d'affaires, who will report to the Swedish ambassador in Mexico City, Tord Goeransson. The government used the opening session of the Riksdag Parliament, to announce its decision. King Gustav IV Adolf opened the session. Pickets ringed the building with signs protesting the recognition of Hanoi.

Rural Planners Meet Tuesday On Pilot Study

A meeting of the Ulster County Development Committee of the Mid Hudson Rural Development Project will be held Tuesday 8 p.m. in Room 415, Science Building at Ulster County Community College, Stone Ridge.

A variety of ideas will be discussed to make the local pilot group an "action Committee," according to program leader Brian S. Heintzelman of the local Farmers Home Administration office.

The Swedish government now maintains a consulate in Havana.

Foreign ministry officials said they expected the U.S. government to express displeasure with the latest move. The U.S. State Department said Sweden's recognition of Hanoi did not help the cause of peace in Vietnam.

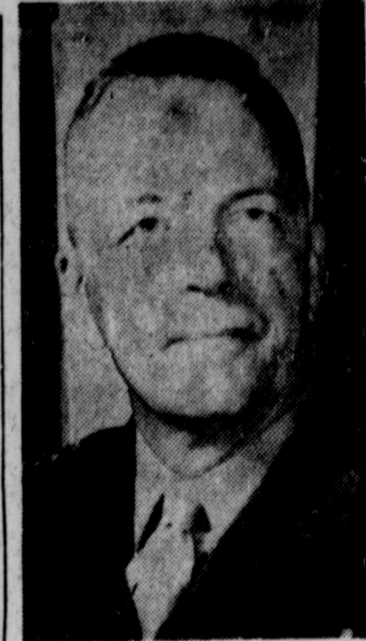

Sweden has been an outspoken critic of the war in Vietnam. A total of 155 U.S. servicemen have been granted asylum in Sweden in refusing duty in the war zone.

(In Saigon, South Vietnam today asked Stockholm for an exchange of ambassadors. The two nations have maintained diplomatic relations but have not exchanged ambassadors for almost two years.)

2 Children Die In Home Fire

AMSTERDAM, N.Y. (UPI)—Two small children died today when fire swept their home here.

Three other persons were taken to a hospital. Police said the fire broke out before dawn. The two - story frame house was still engulfed in flames three hours later. The building on Fairview Ave. was owned by Edward Ford.

OPTIMISTIC — Gen. Leonard F. Chapman (shown in a 1968 photo), Commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps, said Sunday the current lull in the Vietnam war was working militarily in favor of the allies, but the North Vietnamese were taking advantage of the bombing halt to refurbish for a new offensive. Speaking at the end of his third visit to Vietnam, Chapman said, "militarily I am convinced time is on our side and the defeat of the enemy is inevitable." (UPI TELEPHOTO)

American Doctors Volunteer To Help Biafran Children

NEW YORK (UPI)—A group of American doctors—all volunteers—have joined with the Ivory Coast government and the International Red Cross in a mercy effort to save as many Biafran children as possible from starvation in the bitter Nigerian civil war.

The children, many desperately ill after months of acute malnutrition, are being flown to Abidjan, Ivory Coast. From there they are assigned to three medical camps built for them by the small Atlantic coast republic.

The doctors, volunteer members of the recently formed organization called Medical Support Program for Biafra-Nigeria, served as medical staffs in the centers.

The medical support program has been raising funds for the doctors' transportation, as well as medicine, medical supplies and all other equipment needed to nurse the children back to health.

Edwin M. Barton, director of student activities at Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons, is general director of the medical support program. In an interview he explained that the medical centers are designed to provide complete medical, educational and recreational facilities for the children during the long process of recuperation.

Much Like Orphanages
"These are actually convalescent camps," he explained, "rather like first rate orphanages, with play areas and complete facilities for teaching. One Biafran adult will accompany every 20 children."

Initially, the camps can house about 1,000 children, Barton said. Later the organization hopes 500 more can be accommodated.

The camps, sprawling one-story complexes were built under the direction of Ivory Coast President Felix H. Boigny, himself a medical doctor.

Three doctors are already at work in the centers, with additional children arriving as facilities are completed. The MERCY EFFORT—Dr. Peter Martin of the International Red Cross treats a sick child somewhere in Biafra in this 1968 photo. doctors soon will be joined by three others, with 18 more arriving as replacements for each doctor when his tour of duty ends. In addition, malnutrition specialists, pediatricians and lab technicians will be assigned to the centers, Barton said.

The International Red Cross is insisting on very positive supervision of the selection and means of keeping track of the children, and the Biafrans are now willing to let their children go, he said. "I am confident let their children leave the country for fear they would not return to Biafra without suffering cultural shock," Barton explained that the program was the idea of Dr. Michael Rees of Boston's Peter Bent Brigham Hospital. As medical director of the organization, he appealed last August to hospitals around the country for volunteers. He also asked hospitals to continue staff doctors' salaries during their African tours of duty.

The University of Colorado Medical School, Jefferson Medical College Hospital in Philadelphia, and New York City's medical College and Montefiore Hospital agree to the plan. With other volunteers, 30 doctors from Boston to California were signed up.

Money for the project is being raised by private citizens' groups around the country, Barton said, adding: "But more is needed, much more." He estimated the initial cost of treating 1,000 youngsters at $500,000.

"Transportation and expenses for a doctor serving three months without salary is $1,720," he said. "A diagnostic kit costs $950. An ambulance, which can be converted to a personnel carrier, costs $4,100."

"With help from private groups and more volunteer nurses, we could expand the facilities tremendously. The president of the Ivory Coast has expressed interest in bringing out a total of 10,000 children, provided American medical and financial aid can be found."

"And," he added, "there is so little time."

(Editor's note: Nurses interested in the program may apply to Dr. Michael Rees, Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, Boston, Mass. Other inquiries may be directed to Mr. Edwin M. Barton, Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York, N.Y. 10032.)

Scranton Woman Better Next Day... Pain Of Piles Relieved

Treatment Promptly Relieves Pain, Itching In Most Cases

Scranton, Pa. Mrs. J. Straniere, Jr. of this city writes: "When I had our son, I got hemorrhoids and how painful. My husband bought Preparation H for me. The next day, I was much better—just after using it once."

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases—Preparation H actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced. There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

Rocky's Toughest Decision: 5 Per Cent State Budget Cut

By KIRTLAND I. KING
ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Governor Rockefeller says one of the toughest decisions he has had to make during 10 years in Albany was to order a five per cent across-the-board cut in the state budget.

"This is one of the toughest decisions I have had to make," Rockefeller told me. "But, it just had to be done. New York State has a very serious problem to solve and there was no other course."

The governor went on to explain that New York State has always attracted young scientists, junior executives and skilled workers—a needed ingredient for a successful and growing economy. But, things are beginning to change because New York is becoming known as the "high tax" state.

Rockefeller said one company which employs around 2,000 men and women, including many youthful scientists, informed him of intentions of leaving New York.

"The reason given was that many of the young scientists they want to hire are refusing to move into New York State because of high taxes and living costs," the governor added.

The governor said his across-the-board cut in expenditures would cover many services now being performed by localities. What the cities will do he isn't ready to say and he will study developments.

A series of "Town Hall" meetings is planned by Rockefeller and he will travel to Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse and other cities across the state. During the meetings, he will try to explain the necessity for cutting expenditures.

As he begins his travels, however, the proposed five per cent reduction has caused more discussions than his request for a one per cent increase in the state sales tax. Officials of local governments throughout the state believe the cost of education and welfare requires more financial aid from the Rockefeller administration rather than a reduction.

"If the pressure from local governments becomes so great the legislature decides to reject your proposed five per cent cut and increases taxes, what will you do?" the governor was asked.

"I do not know at this time," he replied.

The decision to clamp the lid on expansion of present programs and rule out new plans for the state is a complete reversal of Rockefeller's past policies. During his two and a half terms as governor, he has always given the legislature something new to consider.

"He is not a 'stand still' governor," one Republican leader said. "I am sure that before this session of the legislature ends he will take another serious look at reducing expenditures."

Rockefeller is especially concerned with the skyrocketing costs of education and welfare. He says he is wondering when the peak will be reached. "How far are we going to go on education?" he asked. "Do we ever reach a plateau?" The rising cost of welfare, he added, is a serious problem, especially with a strong economy and full employment. Rockefeller said the ever-increasing number of dependent children on the welfare rolls is a problem for which no answer has been found.

There are a number of possible tax increases but if they go on the books this year, it will be up to the Republican-dominated legislature.

ELLENVILLE COMMUNITY HOSPITAL

Proud Day for Ellenville; Hospital Passes All Tests

ELLENVILLE — The Joint Commission on Hospital Accreditation has granted a three-year seal of approval to the Ellenville Community Hospital, it was announced here recently.

The approval, granted after a detailed inspection of the hospital's operation, was given after 10 years of campaigning to bring the facility to the community and a little over one year since it was dedicated by President Johnson.

The Joint Commission consists of representatives from the American Hospital Association, the American College of Physicians and Surgeons and the American Medical Association. The inspection team of the commission visited the hospital Nov. 1 and made its decision Dec. 24.

The commission sets standards for every aspect of hospital management and practice. Hospitals must meet high standards and criteria for quality patient care to earn accreditation. Hospital president Benjamin Lonstein compared the accreditation to that of the "Sterling" mark on fine silver.

The community voluntary non-profit institution had its beginning in 1963 with a $2,000,000 fund raising campaign spearheaded by Harry Resnick and Robert Stapleton, both of Ellenville.

"The people of Ellenville were promised an accredited hospital if financial support for quality hospital care was forthcoming from the community," said hospital officials in making the recent announcement.

Approximately $600,000 came from the federal government for the facility. The hospital board undertook a $40,000 mortgage from the Albany Savings Bank and the balance of the funds was raised from the community with outright gifts and pledges, they said.

It was opened on March 20, 1966 for patient care with 65 beds and dedicated the following August.

Hospital officials said that while the facility was designed to meet the standards of accreditation, application could not be made, under the rules of the commission, until the hospital had been occupied for one year. In addition, they said, the hospital had to prepare to meet the professional staffing requirements and services necessary for approval.

Among these, they had to add a full time radiologist, a pathologist who also serves as director of laboratories, a hospital pharmacy under the supervision of a licensed pharmacist, a physical therapy department new equipment, all these things and a host of modern equipment, progress as long as the community supports the hospital, as these facilities and services," it has done so commendably.

Lonstein said, "not only to meet with our annual hospital standards of accreditation, but more essentially to provide 'Accreditation,' he said, "the best possible hospital health vides the community with a re-care for our community. New source of pride and confidence in the hospital."

Marines Still Seek Bulldog for Mascot

"The Young Marines are still looking for a bulldog to join up," said Gilbert E. Gray, commanding officer of the Ulster County Young Marines.

"The boys are looking for a mascot," Gray added. "It is the hope of the officers and troops of the Young Marines that some local English bulldog will join their ranks. He (the dog) is promised immediate promotion to sergeant, a comfortable home, in fact his 'barracks' will be complete with a brand new bunk."

Gray reported that since an article relating to the mascot plan was published, several donations have been received to assist in buying a bulldog. Contributors, Gray noted, include Joe's Tavern, Wicks Hose Company, Frazer-Myers, Doc's Ambulance and Mrs.

Amanda Jones. The total now is $55.

In addition to the monetary donations, a doggie bed for the mascot has been donated and is available for immediate use when Sergeant arrives.

The mascot will be attired in a uniform with sergeant's chevrons, and will accompany the Young Marine Units in all parades and other public appearances. He will ride in a special bulldog-size jeep, Gray said.

The Young Marines have requested that anyone in the area who has an English bulldog, they would like to give or loan to the unit as their mascot, to call at 77 Greenkill Avenue in Kingston.

Once a bulldog is recruited, Gray commented, a special program will be set up within the unit and four boys will be assigned each month to act as aides to the sergeant.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

How many of us have gotten up in the morning to find we had only three eggs to feed four people?

Here's what I do when faced with this crisis:

I grab a slice of fresh white bread and cube into real small pieces, then add it to my already beaten eggs, milk, salt and pepper.

Wow!

It not only stretches three eggs to seem like five, but the eggs will be moist and fluffy—never hard and dry.

My family doesn't notice that the bread has been added—it seems to disappear in the mixture.

Try it! You'll never want to fix scrambled eggs any other way.

I cackled like the little red hen when I read Ruth's letter. It's fantastic.

I added a pinch of baking powder to the beaten eggs first. Makes 'em real nice and fluffy.

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

Do you have a bridge?

Partial

Yes, and its name is not London. I heard that one has moved to Arizona.

Dear Heloise:

When reinforcement rings for looseleaf pages are needed, I cut off and use the gummed area from "junk mail" envelope flaps.

For quick and easy double reinforcement, just bend a strip of the gummed paper over a torn edge so both sides will be mended at once. Then punch new hole.

They are especially useful when index tabs are needed. Just bend a strip over both sides of the edge of the paper, leaving enough of the strip extended for desired size of tab.

Pearl E. Fitzpatrick

Envelopes can be used for something at last. Hooray!

Dear Heloise:

The hint telling how to make throwaway bibs with paper toweling by putting many pieces of paper together and using odds and ends of bias binding around the neck to hold them together was good.

I put a layer of waxed paper between the two layers of toweling, thus giving more protection.

I also add another touch. When rounding the corners, I use my pinkie shears and cut clear around them. So easy to make.

Mrs. Ed Crammer

Dear Heloise:

You know how powder can soil a dark dress around the neck?

I use a small piece of wool cut from an old suit. Just rub it over powder smears and it will remove it without a trace.

I've tried this on just about every material and it works.

Dorothy Walker

It shore-do, Honeychile.

You're the dream boat that just sailed into our harbor!

Dear Heloise:

Since my husband can never find the clothes he wants in his closet, I divided them in categories such as dress clothes, work clothes, yard clothes, etc., and wrote each category on adhesive tape which I stuck to the clothes bar itself.

No more problems now and a MUCH neater closet.

Mrs. Gray

Helpful Hints

Versatile Scarf

Scarves add a whole new dimension to fashion. They can be used around the neck, at the waist, in the hair or looped through a handbag. Wear them knotted at the throat or cowboy style, tied in the back.

Attractive Attic

A few yards of budget-priced fabric can be hung along the unfinished walls of an attic room to lend color and interest. Choose one that can be washed often.

Your Purse Neat?

A woman's purse should never be stuffed to overflowing. For busy working gals who are constantly on the go, a large handbag makes "purse neatness" much easier to preserve.

Tint Old Shoes

Don't throw away shoes that are last season's shade. Color them to keep in step with current fashion. Various shoe color kits available should make tinting a cinch.

Cap Your Outfit

Colorful knit caps help keep heads warm through the winter months. For fashion diversion, try a cap of a different color to brighten up last year's outfit or to add extra spark to this year's ensemble.

Top-to-Toe Look

It's easy to wear patterned and colored stockings if you follow a few simple rules. Try for top-toe co-ordination. Match your skirt, stocking and shoe shades for a tall, lean look. Wear low-heeled, sporty shoes.

Advantage

According to a survey of homemakers it is a great advantage to have more than one cleaning center within the home.

Her fiancé was graduated from Liberty Central School, Sullivan County Community College, and State University of New York at Albany. He is employed by the New York State Department of Audit and Control as an accounting trainee. A summer wedding is planned.

The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

A neighbor told me the other day that eighteen people or nine couples in our town were separating or getting a divorce. I think this is an exaggeration, but I myself can count more than half that many. They are all middle-class young folks, well educated, with their own homes, with jobs that support them, and nearly all of them with small children.

Why, then, all this marital crack-up? It is impossible to say why a marriage breaks, unless you are inside it and even then two perfectly different reasons might be offered: his side, her side, no relation to each other. I have often thought if my own marriage were to terminate, Heaven forbid, it could be over the question of house plants. Years ago when we moved to the country for the summer and returned to the city, in the fall the car would be filled to bursting with my plants. A patient husband stowed them away in a masterly way, but now and then, when the cartons of plants and the baskets of plants and the single plants were all by the gate ready to put in the car, I caught a look in his eye and retreated hastily to the house. I didn't want anything irretrievable to be said. This may sound like foolishness, but I fear it is not. Take one of the couple referred to above. They met at college and for a year they both taught. Then they came back to his father's farm, he as manager, she to teach in our local school. Two babies came. He gave up the farm—too close to Papa—and went into business with a friend. She went back to teaching. His business prospered. They had enough to live on, they had a comfortable small house, the little boys grew. Now they are divorced.

Very likely it wasn't house plants. But it might well have been something equally irrelevant. I have heard marriage counselors say that there are as many different reasons for marital upsets as there are marriages. When you think of it, why not? We take two young people of opposite sexes, who have been looked after by their parents, who have known each other a relatively short time, whose habits are pretty well fixed, and who are moved by a powerful attraction that will not last, even though it presently may change into something deeper and stronger.

We put these young folks in a house by themselves and expect them to embark on the formidable business of making a home. They are no longer sheltered by the family as they used to be, often their community ignores them, the friends they make are only half known; and all the problems of modern life, in addition to the time-honored problems of life from the beginning, are about their ears like bees around a hive.

It is a wonder that marriages last as well as they do. For if a third of our marriages result in separation, the other two thirds stick it out, for better or worse. Maybe they tried a little harder, or thought of marriage as a job that must be done, an examination in which they must not fail. There is much to be said for Darby and Joan, but the only way to find out what it is to stay married.

At this time of year it is a good thing to think about love. Any other time, of course, would do as well. Philosophers have been trying to define love, beginning with Plato's Symposium, for more than 2,000 years. For a series of short, sharp, and pungent definitions, I give you the Second Grade children of a school in our locality.

Love is when you go downtown for someone who is sick. Love is when my bicycle was broken and my mother took it to the bike shop.

Love is when your brother makes your bed and your mother's and you didn't even know it.

Love is when I wash my hands before I set the table.

Love is when my sisters and brothers and grandmother help me pick up my toys.

Love is when you do what your mother tells you even when she isn't going to spank you.

Love is when I let my sister hit the ball first and she isn't a good baseball player.

Love is when your mother knits a headband so your ears won't freeze.

Love is when my father takes me out on the Euclid scraper and lets me put the pan down and it's dangerous.

Love is when my mother cooks spaghetti even though my brother doesn't like it.

Love is when I am sick and my mother takes care of me and when my brother kisses me.

Love is when your mother yells at your brothers when they tease you.

Love is when I play house with my sister and I have to be the father and I don't want to play.

Love is when my mother buys food like hamburgers, hot dogs, and Cheerios.

Love is how you feel when you have been forgiven.

Ulster County BPW Joins State Commerce Dept. in Program

By 1970, teenagers throughout America will be spending $20 billion each year, and it is estimated that they will influence the spending of about four times this amount on the part of their families! This morning Kingston teenagers were aided in sharpening their buying skills, as the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club, in cooperation with the New York State Commerce Department Woman's Program, presented a Teenage Consumer Assembly at Kingston High School.

Student members of the Kingston High School branches of Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) and Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) helped to plan and present the four-part program for 700 of their business classmates. Kingston Mayor Raymond Garaghan proclaimed today

"Kingston Teenage Consumer Assembly Day."

A student panel presented examples of deceptive business practices they encountered to a member of the New York State Department of Law, Herbert Wallace, Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Department's Peckskill office. Mr. Wallace explained how such incidents are handled by the Department, and how they can be avoided in the future. Panel members included Michael Andrews, Anne Brown, Pat Hill, Gail Smith, Steve VanDyke, and Michael Perry, chairman.

A slide presentation, detailing the development of a knitwear product from raw material to finished garment, was narrated by Richard Weishaupt. Slides featured some of the 700 Kingston H.S. business students who recently enjoyed a guided tour of the Kingston Knitting Mills, where the featured product was manufactured.

Five girls were pitted against a boys' team in a true-false Consumer Fact Quiz Game. Sue Lavery was chairman of the girls' team, which also included Jackie Clingman, Donna Finkle, Diane Mayone and Mary Peterson. Chairman Richard Sulton heads a team of boys featuring Gary Bassett, Tom Lyle, Gerry McGowan, and Ken Wisner. Bill Ganoe and Al Hendricks tallied the score.

Local businessmen donated awards for winners of a jingle contest based on the theme "Don't Be A Silly Shopper." Judges were headed by Mrs. Dorothy Narel, Woman's Page Editor. The Kingston Freeman; others were Harry Thayer, Radio Station WGHQ and Dan Allen, principal, Kingston H.S. Mrs. Maria J. Dunham, co-owner, secretary and treasurer of Dunham Tunnel and Excavation Corp., and a member of the Ulster County BPW and the New York State Women's Council, was chairman of the prize committee.

Awards included six $25 U. S. Savings Bonds, donated by Ulster County BPW; Lawrence A. Quilty, Inc.; Governor Clinton Market; Rock Construction Corp.; State of New York National Bank; and Dunham Tunnel and Excavation Corp. Additional prizes were: transistor radio, The Ultimate Sound; three $5 gift certificates, Kingston Uptown Businessmen's Association; $25 cosmetic gift basket, Clairor; and a trip for the winning girl to the BPW Youth Leadership Conference, Ulster

County BPW. All winners will be guests of the Ulster County BPW at a dinner meeting January 14 in the Senate Room of the Kirkland Hotel. Their names will be announced in Wednesday's paper.

The morning's events closed with "Fashions for Action," featuring styles from Sears, Roebuck and Co., Kingston Shopping Plaza. Students modeled the clothes to music as commentator Miss Joanne Augustine, Fashion Coordinator and Director of the Charm School at Sears, noted design and fabric care features of each garment. Models were Sue Boice, chairman; Betsy Benson, Steve Beverly, Joanne Bradhead, David Carey, Debby Eisele, Alice Green, Charles Howell, Ruth Kaiser, Jack McGowan, Debby McHugh, Karen Norton, Chuck Polacco, Nancy Potter, Mary Premo, Greg Rios, Lorraine Turck, Lorenzo Walker, Bob Wilber and Lois Wisok.

Mr. Allen, principal, opened the program following the Salute to the Flag led by Terry DeMicco, president of DECA at Kingston H.S., who presented Loryne Connick, Director of the Business Department. Mr. Connick introduced Mrs. Barbara Read, Personal Development Committee Chairman of the Ulster County BPW and program coordinator. Mrs. Mary E. Tobin, Assistant Deputy Commissioner, represented the State Commerce Woman's Program. F. Ronald Bullis and Mr. James Waltham, Distributive Education Coordinators, and Mrs. Elizabeth Milano, FBLA advisor, handled arrangements. Student committee heads included Kathy Mickney, refreshments; Lyn Griffin, usherettes; and Michael Perry, display. Other display committee members were Don Bloom, Charles Richers and Jim Whalen. They arranged a window display at Kingston Luggage Shop, through the cooperation of Clifford Bunting, which featured the Teenage Consumer Assembly during the month of January. Student photographers were Les Hymes and Ted Pugliese.

BPW committee members included Vera Bishop, Gloria Jean Clark, Rosemary Denter, Ellen Donovan, Grace Claire Ede, Chris Gallop, Edith Hungerford, Hilda Krom, Ginny Neher, Lucille Noble, President Mary Polhemus, Beverly Reese, Margo Rothburn, Eleanor Tompkins, Sarah Townsend and Rosemarie Caulfield, who is stage manager.

HINTS FOR TEENAGERS

...From your Sewing Editor

TOUCH ME NOT! WHO SAYS SO!

Fabric is unbreakable. Use your sense of touch. Does it feel of fabric, or a print instead of a soft or crisp? Is it smooth or napped? Is the weave firm or loose? Does it wrinkle? Unroll a yard or two of material and see how it drapes. Does it fall in soft folds, flare or hang straight? Study the garment's silhouette. Will the fabric cling, gently skim the body or stand away?

Selecting the perfect fabric for a pattern is important and exciting. The colored sketches on the front of your pattern envelope will inspire you; the suggested fabrics listed on the back will lead you in the right direction. After making the touch test, read hang tags for information on fiber content, shrinkage and special finishes such as "Permanent Press" or "Easy-Care." These are the facts behind the feel and drape of a fabric. They let you know how to prepare a fabric before cutting out the pattern and how to care for the finished garment.

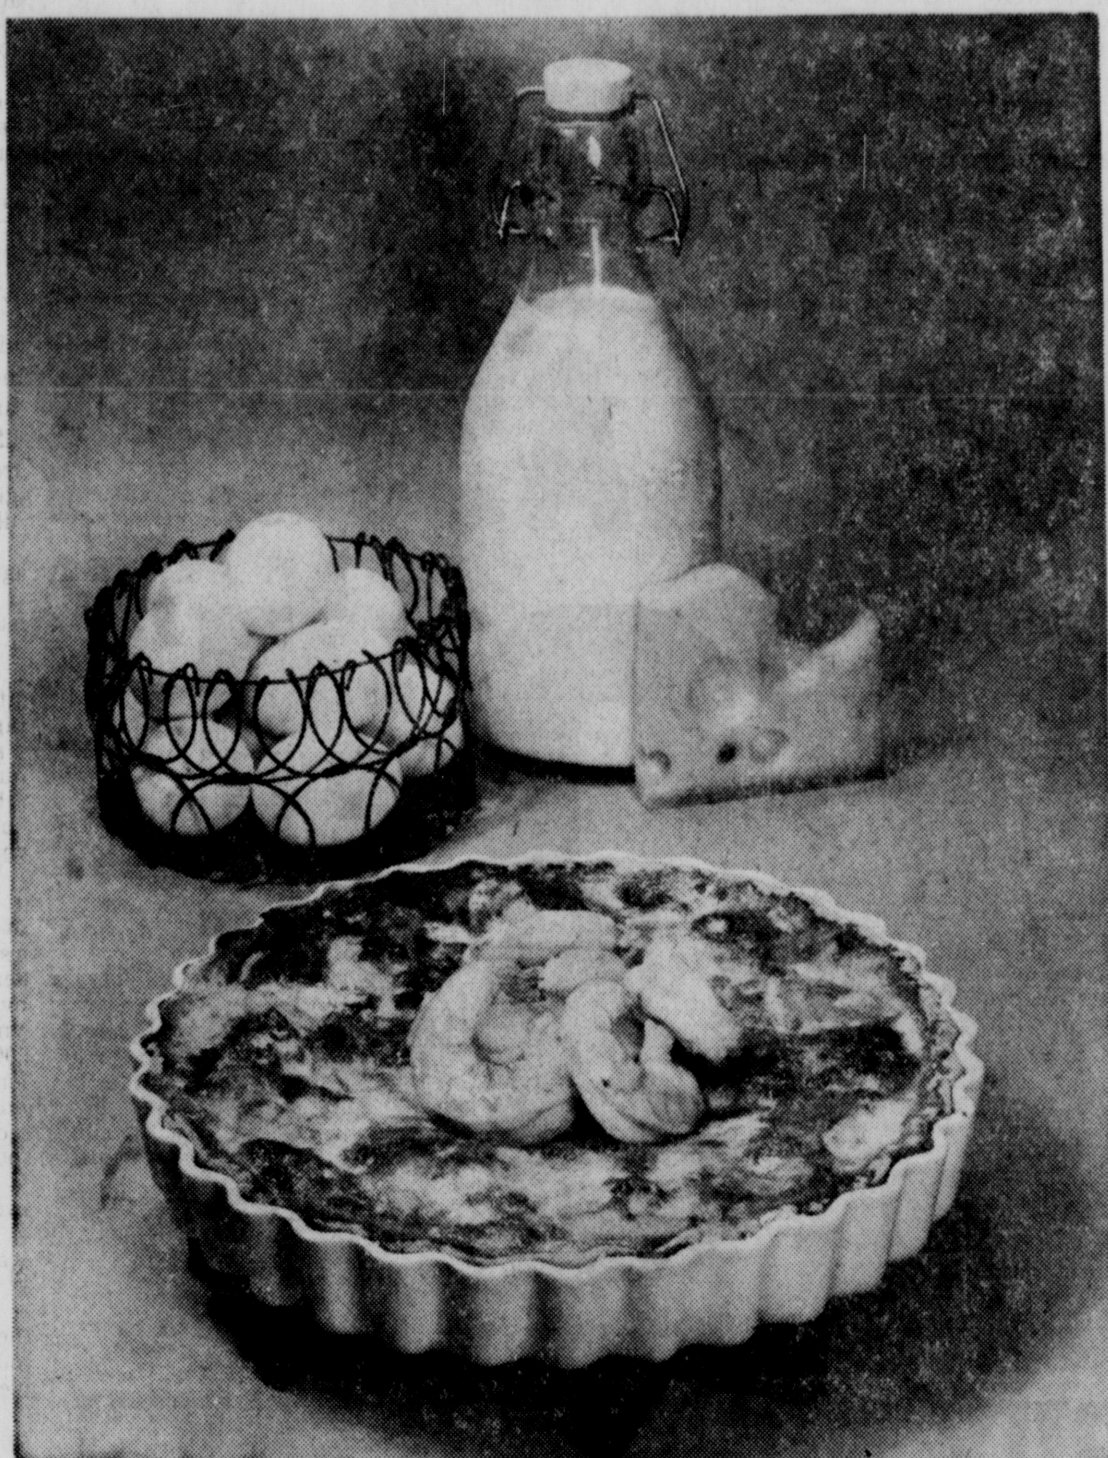

Possibilities Unlimited
This uncluttered sleeveless dress (McCall's) comes to life in a frothy lace fabric. It's like putting champagne in a clear crystal goblet so you can see the fizz. Lace is only the beginning of possibilities for this basic style. Imagine it made up in velvet for other enchanted evenings, in wood tweed for daytime wear over a blouse, in cotton pique for summer.

Different weights and textures of fabric, or a print instead of a solid color, change the whole look of a pattern design. A suit pattern with lots of tailoring details would be at war with a sheer, feminine organdy and impossible to make in a soft jersey. The same pattern made up in gabardine or wool flannel would be smashing.

Lace Lessons
A fabric must be compatible to the construction of a garment, as well as the finished look. To tune you in on how to handle lace fabric in dressmaking, Coats and Clark has whipped up a lacy leaflet. It is available free of charge by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Sewing Editor of this newspaper along with your request for Leaflet PE 1608, SEWING ON LACE.

Gals Wear the Pants
Pants are "in" for evening wear. They go along with the trend toward "casual elegance" that's revolutionizing the American scene.

Humidify Rooms
Rooms should be properly humidified, as an extremely dry atmosphere will dry out natural oils. Too much humidity will cause woods and leathers to "sweat," causing the finish to blister.

'Quiche' Made Lorraine World Wide Celebrity

SHRIMP QUICHE

For many Americans, the "quiche" is the dish that made Lorraine famous. In fact, while France's 11 medieval provinces—of which Lorraine was one—no longer exist as administrative entities, their names are widely known, often in connection with French wines and foods. "Quiche" is an ancient provincial word meaning "tart" or "flan." The International Shrimp Council has brought a new twist to this classic dish made of egg, cream, and cheese, by adding America's favorite shellfish, shrimp.

Shrimp Quiche

1 pound shrimp, fresh or frozen, or 1 (10 oz. or 12 oz.) bag peeled and deveined shrimp
1/4 pound Swiss cheese, grated
1 (6 oz.) package grated Gruyere cheese
1 tablespoon flour
3 eggs
1 cup light cream
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash Tabasco
9-inch unbaked pastry shell

Clean and devein shrimp. Cut in small pieces. Toss together eggs, cream, salt, pepper, mustard and sauces. Spread 3/4 of cheese mixture in pastry shell. Add shrimp and cover with remaining cheese. Pour egg mixture over cheese and shrimp. Bake at 400 degrees (hot oven) 15 minutes; reduce heat to 325 degrees (slow oven) and continue baking 40 minutes, or until silver knife inserted in center comes out clean. Let stand 10 minutes before serving. Serve warm. Makes eight to 10 appetizer servings, six luncheon or supper servings.

Pant Suits for Women

NEW YORK (AP)—Women attending the inaugural balls honoring President-elect Nixon will be admitted in pant suits and men can wear black tie, although white tie is recommended.

"They're accepted these days, aren't they," Mark Evans, one of the ball's cochairmen, asked a group of fashion writers Thursday at the Hotel Pierre, Nixon's headquarters.

As the women chorused their affirmation, Evans said, "if you say so . . . Yes, women will be admitted in their formal drawers."

Evans and Mrs. Leslie C. Arends, wife of the Illinois congressman, also said that after much deliberation the chairmen had decided white tie was preferable for the inaugural ball but that black tie would be optional.

Evans, Mrs. Arends, and another co-chairman, presented Mrs. Nixon with examples of the favors to be given to inaugural ball guests.

Guests sitting in $1,000 boxes will receive a red, white and blue 21-inch scarf emblazoned with the Nixon inaugural theme, "Forward Together."

In addition, the women will be given a gold filled bracelet with dangling square medallions of the inaugural seal and male guests will receive cuff links engraved with the seal.

Ulster Rips Middlesex, 111-83, for 11th Win

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

Ulster County Community College routed Middlesex, N. J., Community College, 111-83, after a desultory first half Saturday night and the decisive victory was strictly out of the early season handbook.

Coach Mike Perry removed the shackles that had chained Jerry Moss to the bench for three games and the unpredictable former Bryant High (NYC) star responded with a brilliant 30-point, 9-assist performance.

Restricted to a pair of free throws in the first half, Marshall O'Neil rebounded with six of his corner shot specialties in the second half.

Ray Lindhorst turned in another solid effort before fouling out with 7:30 left to play. He scored 18 points, thirteen in the first half when UCCC ground out a 49-37 lead, and led the team in rebounds with 18.

With these three stalwarts clicking in high gear, the Garden Staters were engulfed 64-44 after the recess, as the Senators rolled to their 11th win in 13 starts.

Hit 51 Percent

UCCC which hit 51 percent (17 for 33) in the first half, escalated its pace to 59 percent in the second half (25-42) for an overall 56 percent.

Middlesex, led by 6-foot Noel Lugo who tied Moss' 30 points, actually had more shots than Ulster but a cold second half, including a run of only three baskets in 10 minutes, wound up with an unimpressive 35 percent on 31 for 89.

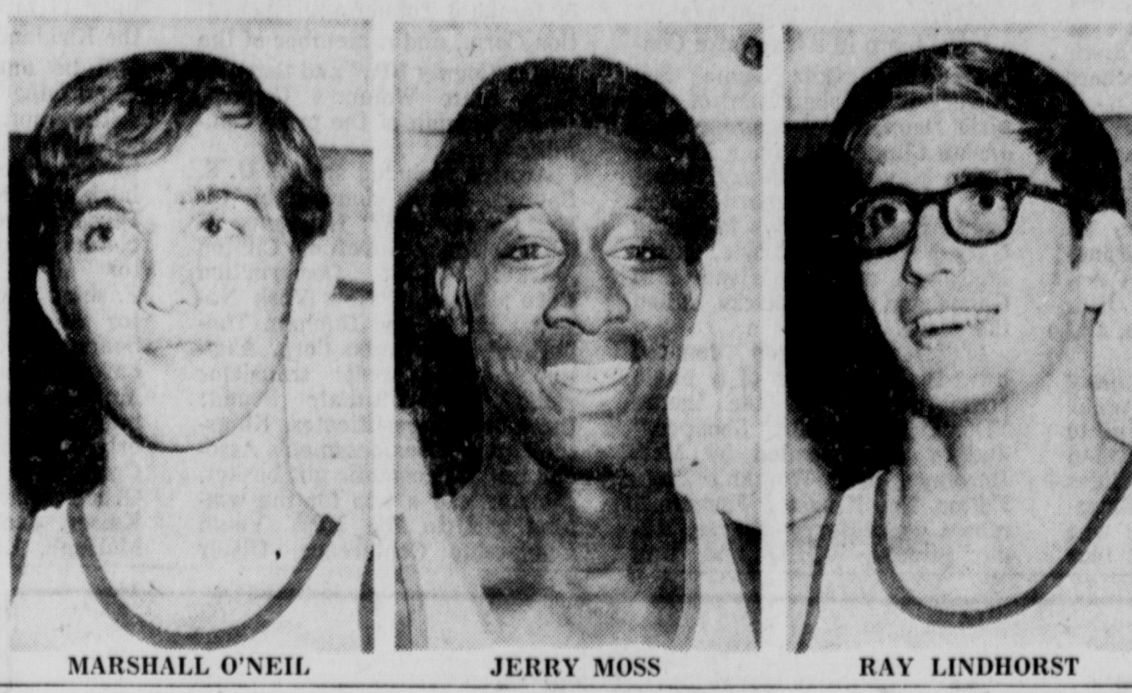

Lugo scored 15 points in each half and displayed one of the finest shooting touches seen at the municipal auditorium this season.

UCCC dominated the action from the start, breaking to a 11-1 lead before Middlesex bagged its first field at the three-minute mark.

Four points by Moss and fields by Gary Kirkwood and Lindhorst sent UCCC ahead 8-0. Moss driving in after a patented steal. Paced by Lugo's sharp-shooting, the visitors battled back to tie the score at 14-14, but Ulster roared back with six straight points by Trippodo, Moss and Kirkwood.

Ulster Bowlers Place 2nd in Region XV Tourney

NEW YORK — Ulster County Community College bowlers placed second in the team event but excelled in individual competition in the annual Region XV championships Saturday at the new Madison Square Garden lanes.

Farmingdale CC (Long Island Aggies) captured the team championship with a 9-game aggregate of 8631 pins, a 209-pin margin over UCCC's 8132. Orange CCC of Middletown was third with 7926.

The luck of the draw pitted Ulster against Farmingdale in all nine games across nine sets of lanes. Ulster drew the champions for the first match and the next two rounds were position rounds.

Bill Lukowski's tournament leading average of 208 off an 1872 pinfall paced the winning Aggies. Ulster took second and third in the averages on John Schatzel's 198 and Jack Whitaker's 195.

Al Gross of Queensborough rolled high individual series of 636 and Schatzel was second with 624. Ulster's Joe Mannello led the solos with 245 and Whitaker took second place with his 243.

Schatzel and Whitaker were named to the All Star tournament team, along with Lukowski and Lou Bravetti of Farmingdale and Gross of Queensborough.

Whitaker, a 175 average bowler, was the real surprise for UCCC with his 195 average mingdale had a hot bowler in 1754 pins. Schatzel knocked down 1787 for Ulster.

UCCC Coach Al DiBernardo was satisfied with the team's performance. "They bowled real well," he said, "but Farmingdale had a hot bowler in Lukowski and they were just too tough for us."

The order of finish: 1. Farmingdale, 8361; 2. Ulster, 8132; 3. Orange CC, 7926; 4. Dutchess, 7735; 5. Suffolk, 7718; 6. Queensborough, 7716; 7. Rockland, 7603; 8. Nassau, 7556; 9. 14. Fashion Institute Tech, 6847. DiBernardo said the newly crowned Mid-Hudson Conference champions would probably compete in three more post-season tournaments before winding up the season.

Maroons Swim Against M.H.S.

Kingston High's DUSO League swimming champions launch the defense of their title against Middletown High today at the Middle pool.

In the other opener, Fallsburg Central is at Newburgh Academy.

Coach Ron Gabriele, who piloted the Maroons to their first swim title in history, thinks Kingston is a little weaker and the rest of the field stronger than in 1968, when Kingston won the championship with a 5-1 record.

The championship squad at KHS last season was the best in the four-year history of swimming, but graduations, transfers, injuries and illness put a big dent in Kingston's hopes for a repeat.

Gene Gruner, Craig Murray and John Brinnier form a solid nucleus for this season's aspirants but Kingston's 12-meet schedule is loaded with challenges, especially with two confrontations with powerful Poughkeepsie and New York Military Academy.

Helmich May Swim Pete Helmich, the footballer who suffered a broken hand in the Thanksgiving Day game at Newburgh, is expected to take his place in the swim lineup today. But depth remains a serious problem for Coach Gabriele, despite the trio of stars on top.

Coach Bob Minnerly's Newburgh Goldbacks have been tabbed as pre-season favorites. They lost to Poughkeepsie (who doesn't?) but defeated Marlboro and Highland Falls.

NFA's wonder boy is Joel Aronchick, who has been turning in fancy times in the 100-yard butterfly and 100 breaststroke. Aronchick poses a serious threat to Kingston's Gene Gruner as the top butterflyer in the DUSO.

Newburgh's diving will be as strong as ever with Mike and Alan Levy in charge. Coach Minnerly has been getting fine performances from Jeff Taylor in the freestyle long distances. Bill Griffin has been turning in fast times in the short and medium distance freestyle events.

Fallsburg Is 3-0

Coach John Halchak's Come's at Fallsburg are 3-0 going into DUSO competition, having defeated Nyack, Marlboro and Wappingers Falls.

Halchak has been getting fine performances from his two sons, Jack and Rich Halchak, who between them cover four events. Bill Griffin has been clocked in some fast times in short and medium events and Dave Rodgers looks like a winner in the backstroke events.

The jury is still out on Middletown which has a new coach in Edward Morgan. The Middies have an outstanding freestyler in John Goldstein and Phil Walsh is rated a threat in any of several events.

Sifford Captures Los Angeles Open

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—When Charlie Sifford does something outstanding on the golf course it's likely to be a "first."

In 1967 he became the first Negro to win a major PGA event when he took the Hartford Open.

Sunday he became the first of his race to win the Los Angeles in what has been his hometown since he came here from Charlotte, N.C. years ago.

He had to do it the hard way. He beat South Africa's Harold Henning on the first hole of a sudden death playoff after they tied at the end of the regulation 72 holes.

Sifford who admits to 46 years got off to a rousing start in the tournament with a first round 63, eight under par. Then he trudged along Rancho Park Municipal Course with three successive days of par 71.

Henning was less consistent. He had rounds of 74-68-66-68 to get his eight under par 276 that tied Sifford. The playoff victory was good for $20,000. Henning collected $11,400 for second. "I was pretty happy to get the tie," he said. "I had to scramble for it."

The tire the experts asked for:

"Looking at our results, it is easy to see why radial ply tires are so appealing. But the more we look, the more we feel that all the advantages are a result of the belt, which stabilizes the tread, and not the radial plies themselves. In fact, the areas where the radial tires show signs of weakness can be related to the radial plies, not the belt. We can't help but think that a combination tire—a cross ply with a belt—would be an admirable solution."

Stony Brook Nips State U. Hawks in Last Seconds, 54-53

STONY BROOK — Adversity continued to haunt New Paltz State U. Hawks Saturday night, as they dropped their third one-point decision of the season.

Host Stony Brook clinched its come from behind win 54-53 on a deuce by Sam Kerr with two seconds left to play.

The setback, dropping New

Paltz's record to 2 wins and 7 defeats, was the third one-point loss for Coach Doug Shappard's Hawks who have dropped two other contests by two points, one in overtime.

Led by Pete Kane and Rich Josephs, the Hawks threatened to turn the game into a rout when they bolted to a 25-8 lead in the first 10 minutes of play.

Stony Brook firmed its defense at this point and fought back a basket by Pete Kane put the Hawks ahead, 53-52.

At this point, Josephs fouled

Dave Kirschner, who missed the free throw try. New Paltz started downcourt for one last

Coleman Wins, 72-70 In Overtime Game

Don Hastings sunk two crucial foul shots with 15 seconds remaining in overtime to give the John A. Coleman high school basketball team a 72-70 victory over Storm King Prep.

Hastings long jumper with 40 seconds remaining in regulation time noted the score at 61 all and sent the game into an extra period. Storm King's big gun Jim McMillan quickly gave them a six point lead and an apparent victory, but at the 1:10 mark he fouled out and the Statesmen of Coleman began their surge.

Riche Seche stole an errant pass and found Craig Renn who layed it up and in. Don Bouchard followed with another steal finding Hastings under the basket for a layup to tie the score. Storm King missed another shot and Pat Harder hit on a corner jump shot to knot the score at 70 all. The prep men again failed to score and Hastings, in an attempt at a layup was fouled. He sunk them both for victory.

The statesmen took a 31 to 22 half time lead but went stone cold in the third quarter as Storm Kings McMillan got hot, hitting for 14 of his final total, 33.

According to Coleman head coach Pat Taffer, "We controlled the boards which was a big factor in the win."

"Debroski, in his first starting role and Renn did a great rebounding job."

High scorers for Coleman were Renn with 22 and Hastings with 19, a good number of which were set up by Seche's assists.

Boston Takes First in East

By United Press International Harry Sinden isn't satisfied very easily.

Sinden's Boston Bruins took over first place in the Eastern Division of the National Hockey League Sunday night with an 8-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Penguins.

The Bruins won their third straight and extended their unbeaten string seven straight to take a one-point lead over the Montreal Canadiens.

But Sinden thinks the Bruins should have a bigger lead. "If somebody told me we'd lose only four of 29 games or only eight of the first 39, I'd have thought we'd be in front by 10 points at least," he said. The only club the Bruins lead by 10 points is last place Detroit so they can't relax.

"We do have two games in hand on Montreal, but what we have to do is take charge in this division," Sinden said.

Ken Hodge and Ron Murphy each scored two goals and John Bucyk, John McKenzie, Ted Green and Fred Stanfield scored one apiece as the Bruins romped to the triumph. Phil Esposito had five assists to tie a club record.

In the other three games, Detroit topped Oakland 5-1, Chicago nipped Los Angeles 4-2 and St. Louis blanked Minnesota 2-0.

Frank Mahovlich scored four goals to move into 10th place on the all-time scoring list as the Red Wings topped Oakland. Mahovlich now has 25 this year and 328 in his career.

Bobby Hull scored two goals to pace the Hawks past the Kings. Hull now has 30 goals for the season.

Glenn Hall gained his fifth shutout as St. Louis topped Minnesota. Alternate goalie Jacques Plante also has five shutouts for the NFL's top defensive club.

Knicks Train Still Rolling

By United Press International The New York Knickerbockers have been watching too many Jets' movies.

Like their Super Bowl champion neighbors from New York, the Knicks have been the scourge of the National Basketball Association with 14 victories in their last 15 games.

The Knicks closed to within five games of first place Baltimore in the eastern division as Dick Barnett sparked his club with 11 points in the final four minutes Sunday night to beat the San Diego Rockets 105-102.

Cincinnati dropped four games back of fourth place New York in the battle for a playoff berth as Detroit edged the Royals 113-111 and Milwaukee upset Boston 114-100 in other NBA games.

New York trailed San Diego 100-99 with 1:17 remaining when Willis Reed sank two foul shots and Barnett netted a six-foot jumper and two free throws to ice the game for the Knicks.

Reed was the game's high scorer with 36 points and Dave DeBusschere added 26 for New York. John Block paced the Rockets with 29 and rookie sensation Elvin Hayes chipped in with 20.

Eddie Miles hit four charity tosses in the last 12 seconds to margin over Cincinnati which lost its fourth straight and eighth in the Royals' last 11 games. Butch Komives went 20-plus for the fifth time since the Pistons acquired him from New York as he scored 23 points.

Oscar Robertson led Cincinnati with 36. Floyd Robinson tallied 26 points to beat Boston for the first time this season. Milwaukee now has won four of its last five games. Tom Sanders kept Boston in the game with a team high 23 points.

Unamerican Committee To Go After SDS Group

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Students for a Democratic Society, activist promoters of many campus and anti war demonstrations, will be the top target of the House Un-American Activities Committee this year.

Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., said the student organization will be the first matter for investigation by the committee of which he has just become chairman.

Ichord, 42, said SDS would be looked at "in view of the information that has been made public of the increasingly militant nature of the SDS—its conducting classes in sabotage, how to make molotov cocktails and its teaching violent guerrilla tactics."

Ichord also said he would try to frame new laws to maintain the proper atmosphere of a hearing. In addition, I will introduce a bill to clarify the present law that permits me as chairman to maintain order in the hearing room."

Committee hearings in the past have often been tumultuous with sometimes hostile witnesses and demonstrators.

Ichord already has introduced a bill to change the name of the committee — swapping "UN-American" for "Internal Security." He introduced the same bill two years ago but it never made it to the floor.

"UN-American as a term is ambiguous," Ichord said. "It's not a good legal term and that concerns people who have more libertarian philosophies."

Huge Success, Fish Declares On the 2 District Meetings

POUGHKEEPSIE — Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., who held his first in-person office hours in the district Saturday, termed the new venture a huge success.

A good many persons turned out at both the Poughkeepsie and the Hudson offices to discuss a variety of subjects including unemployment, housing and foreign aid. Fish said he remained at the Hudson office until 6 p. m. in order to meet and talk with everyone who sought to confer with him. The new congressman plans to travel the district each Saturday with the exception of Jan. 18 when he will be in Washington for the inauguration festivities.

Persons wishing to see Fish at his 70 Market Street, Poughkeepsie office, are asked to call that office prior to Saturday. He will be available at his Hudson office, 711 Warren Street from 2 to 4 p. m.

Peace Groups Meet to Plan United Action

Sixty persons representing nine peace, civil rights and political groups in the Mid-Hudson area met at Marist College, Poughkeepsie, Friday night to plan for united action in fulfilling common goals. A committee was formed to develop program ideas and an organizational structure for the coalition.

Peter Kane Dufault, recent Liberal party candidate for Congress from the 28th District, spoke on Campaign Lessons. He suggested a citizens movement aimed at bringing the entire electoral process, including political parties, within the jurisdiction of the Constitution.

Other speakers presented the goals of the represented groups as being peace, civil rights, equal opportunity, fair taxation, internal education, and improved inter-group communications.

Represented at the meeting were the Mid-Hudson Council for New Politics, the Ulster County Peace Committee, the Columbia County Liberal Party Club, Focus on Vietnam, the Wappingers Falls Peace Group, and student organizations at Dutchess, New Paltz, Marist and Vassar Colleges.

Host group was the Mid-Hudson Council for New Politics. Max Finestone of Accord presided.

Strikes Make Living Chaotic For New York's 8,000,000

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — This tough city of eight million people is a living, vibrant, exciting, sophisticated example of the law of diminishing returns and increasing chaos.

It hires a third of a million people to fight its fires, patrol its streets, teach its children, run its subways, drive its taxis and pick up its trash, all of which they do, from time to time.

It has over a million youngsters in school, from time to time.

It has over a million people on relief, all of the time.

What problems New Yorkers wouldn't have already are brought in by some three million outsiders who enter the city every weekday morning but sleep somewhere else. Unless the trains or buses stop or the power goes out, in which case they sleep in New York City.

In the middle of this contorted existence is the vibrant, exciting, sophisticated New Yorker. Just take a look at how he lived in 1968, or as Mayor John V. Lindsay would put it, how he "survived."

Garbage Galore
His first real crisis came in February. The trashmen went on strike. New York just barely keeps its head above trash level anyway. But with the strike, 10,000 tons of refuse a day piled up on city curbstones. Wallowing in its own filth, the city faced a prime health hazard. Ultimately, after 10 days, the trashmen returned.

In 1968, New York firemen staged a slowdown on fire inspections to back up their demands for more pay. With one out of eight New Yorkers living in housing the city says should be torn down, the warning was sufficient.

In 1968, New York police, citing the hazards of their jobs, picketed precinct stations and city hall. Over five days, some 23,000 New York police reported ill with the flu, more than a month before the epidemic hit the city. In crime-rich New York, the warning was sufficient.

At the bottom of the list, poorly paid hospital attendants struck city-run hospitals for more money. After all, they could argue, their $4,000 salaries were about what a family of four received on relief without working at all.

In 1968, there were also periodic shortages of taxicabs, while drivers picketed City Hall for one reason or another.

Then in September 1968, it was the teachers. They struck the year before for more money. Now it was job security, a protest against a plan to decentralize the city's schools.

The 55,000 member teachers' local, biggest in the nation, balked at the plan that would make it deal with 33 local boards instead of the total school system. It argued that individual teachers would be at the mercy of local administrators, perhaps local animosities.

By mid-November, New York's schoolchildren had been given only 12 days of classroom study in the on-again, off-again strike. When compromise finally reopened the schools on an overtime basis to catch up, some schoolchildren struck to protest the overtime.

Holiday Woes
The holiday season of 1968 brought still more treats for the embattled New Yorker. As predicted, the Hong Kong strain of Asian influenza hit the city, rose quickly to a full-fledged epidemic. Then fuel oil deliveries struck and left some 400,000 New Yorkers shivering in unheated apartments.

The flu epidemic created a serious shortage in blood for transfusions because so many donors were ill. It came just as the holiday accident toll rose, heightening the demand for blood.

All of these crises have to be looked at against the backdrop of the New Yorker's normally tortured existence. He is largely an apartment dweller, and his rents gallop upward, often doubling, when the buildings are not rent controlled.

Yet through all his travail, the New Yorker preserves some hope—that the landlord will send the repairman, that taxes will abate and taxis increase, that the subways won't be at

LWV Urges Rocky Act On Court Conitions

An urgent appeal to Gov. Rockefeller and the Legislature to create a commission to study the crisis conditions in the courts has been sent by the League of Women Voters of N.Y. State. The League claims that justice is being denied to many because the courts are operating under a seriously deficient and outdated Judiciary Article of the State Constitution. This injustice is particularly felt by the poor and minority groups, the LWV adds.

Mrs. George Ames of Rye, State League president, called for the creation of a Commission on the Judiciary, composed of leading citizens, to undertake a complete revision of the Judiciary Article. She said, "since the 1968 Constitutional Convention failed to modernize the court structure, we function under an antiquated, inefficient and expensive court system, strangled by an enormous backlog of cases. The creation of a bipartisan commission, first suggested by the League after its Council meeting last May, would make possible a streamlined court system capable of responding to the needs of all New Yorkers," she concludes.

During this session of the State Legislature, League members will urge first passage of a constitutional amendment establishing improved methods of selecting and removing judges. The League proposes that judges be appointed on a merit basis from lists drawn up by non-partisan screening commissions composed of lawyers and laymen. It also urges new procedures for removing and disciplining ill and incompetent judges.

In another area, the League is calling for a constitutional amendment which would set standards for drawing legislative district lines to guarantee equitable representation. This is an outgrowth of the League's study of the apportionment of the State Legislature, begun in 1963, and is necessary to conform to the U.S. Supreme Court. A measure incorporating the League's proposals for fair districting standards has been introduced by Assemblyman Alvin M. Suchin of Dobbs Ferry. By setting a series of guidelines for drawing district lines the proposal would control gerrymandering while assuring that each legislator represents the same number of constituents.

Legal Off-Track Betting Called for by City Leader

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York's new city council president, making his first proposal since taking office Jan. 8, has suggested legalization of off-track betting in the state.

Francis X. Smith estimated that $20 million could be raised annually by taxing off-track betting on horse races.

In a six-page "white paper" sent to the state legislature Saturday, the newly elected city council president, a Democrat, proposed that a joint legislative committee be formed to study off-track betting and other legalized forms of gambling.

Smith said the people of New York State already have approved on-track race horse betting and he asserted "it is hypocrisy to continue to make the same act illegal outside the race tracks."

He also argued that the tax on legal off-track bets would produce $200 million annually for the city and state. Smith said the people of New York City approved legalizing off-track betting in a referendum in 1963.

did not hold out the hope that legalizing off-track betting would eliminate the corner bookie. He expressed only the hope that it will reduce illicit bookmaking that now escapes taxation and nourishes the underworld.

He also argued that the tax on legal off-track bets would produce $200 million annually for the city and state.

Smith said the people of New York City approved legalizing off-track betting in a referendum in 1963. The new city council president also asked for a study of the feasibility of legalizing other forms of betting. He pointed out that the people of the state already have approved a lottery. He asked whether it would not be better to legalize betting on such events as baseball and football than to let the underworld continue to reap heavy profits from these forms of gambling.

Dear Abby

Everyone Merits Love

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1969 by Chicago Tribune
N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: You may be unable to help me, but perhaps you can offer an opinion. How does a decent, deeply religious widow overcome her desires to be kissed and be loved?

After being married 44 years with only one man in her life, widowed a year, not exactly ancient (62), one lives only with memories, constantly revived by TV and books, all ending in sex, and while pleasant to review, they bring to life desires that are difficult to suppress. Having once had pure gold, I could not replace it with brass. No man however good could ever take the place of the one I lost, yet isn't it evil to harbor desires such as mine?

This writer feels ashamed and unclean, and she is miserable beyond words. Please try to help me. DEAR ALONE: You have no cause to feel "ashamed" or "unclean" because your natural desires remain undiminished as a widow of 62. Instead of trying to "overcome" your desires to be loved, look for someone who's in the same boat—to whom YOU can give love. And don't be so quick to evaluate the "metal." You need an ALLY, not an ALLOY.

DEAR ABBY: My twin sister and I have the same problem. About a month ago our whole family was involved in an automobile accident. There were no serious injuries but our parents were scared out of their wits and gave us strict orders that we were not to ride in cars. We both have steady boy friends and this rule is causing problems. Our boy friends are good, careful drivers and had nothing to do with this accident. Is this fair? Help!

18 AND 18 DEAR "18": No, but time will solve your problem. I predict that in due time the memory of the accident will fade, and so will the "rule."

DEAR ABBY: If you should get a letter saying, "Dear Abby, my husband and I are not able to communicate because he never tells me anything," it will be from my wife. But before you answer it, let me fill you in on a few facts: She's right. I don't tell her anything anymore because every time I open my mouth to say something, she butts in, finishes it, and tells me where I'm wrong.

You see, she reads two newspapers every day and has her television on from morning until night, which makes her an "authority" on positively everything, although she contradicts herself and invariably gets her facts all mixed up.

I am a responsible man, and my job requires that I keep abreast of all the local, national and international news, so it's not like I was down in a pit all day a completely oblivious to what's going on. So now I just say good morning and good night. Sign me—

"NOT TALKING" CONFIDENTIAL TO ANYONE FOR WHOM IT IS NOT YET TOO LATE: Don't make the mistake so many parents (who can afford it) make—giving their children expensive gifts instead of time and thoughtful guidance. The only real security children will ever have in this life will come from whatever ability they develop to get along with each other and to make their own way, not from material things.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

LOVE IN A HURRY: (Q) If a boy tells you he loves you on the first night you go out with him, should you believe him, or is it just a habit—C. in Bangor, Me.

(A) If a boy says he loves you on the first date, watch out. The chances are he doesn't mean it. It may be a habit he has adopted—with a purpose in mind.

ALL BROKEN UP: (Q) My girl friend and I have broken up. And I'm all broken up about it. I honestly love her and am working hard to get her back steady.

The past 10 weeks have been terrible. My grades have dropped. But last weekend was a little better.

I was with her and I think I kept her happy. I tried to overlook the way she hurt me.

I honestly need her and want to share everything in life with her. If I can't have her I don't want anything. But she says that, even though she loves me, she does not want me to love her.

Please tell me how I can get her back and keep her. I'm 19 and she's 16.—A Baltimore Reader.

(A) You want a recipe no one has—a sure way to win and keep love. No one has the exact recipe because every girl is different and every boy is different. Your friend has a mind of her own, just as you do. She either loves you or she doesn't. The fact that she tells you she loves you does not necessarily make it so.

I cannot give you a gimmick or a trick or a magic love drink to use on her. She has to want to come back to you. If you lure her back against her will, you may wish you hadn't.

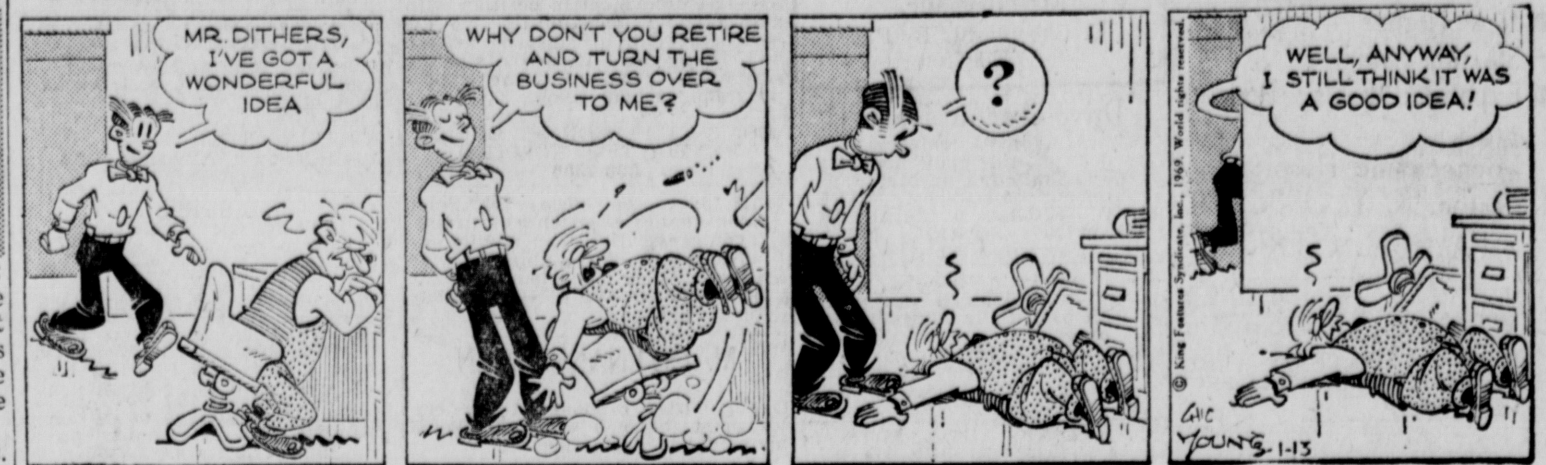

So do not spend all your time fretting about her—and yourself. Stop the agony act. Relax. Keep cool. Get your mind on your schoolwork. Let a little time flow under the bridge and then try again. Don't repeat the life-or-death act. You've found that's no good. Be yourself, be friendly and cheerful and considerate. I hope it works out. If not, look for someone else. At 19 you have lots of time.

A Visit With Robert Stack

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—If tele-vision can lay claim to Air. It is a tasteful structure of natural stone and glass combining sweeping views, modern furniture and soft pastel colors inside.

He also is one of the stars of "The Name of the Game." All the appointments are tasteful and costly. Three servants are necessary to keep the home running. In addition to manicured gardens the Stacks enjoy a tennis court and swimming pool on the grounds.

To say that Bob and Rosemary lead the good life is an understatement. Their indoor-outdoor home encompasses 6,000 square feet, including six bedrooms.

Perhaps the most interesting room in the house is Bob's den. In the center is a large glass-topped table under which are displayed dozens of awards, marksman at trap and skeet ribbon and shoulder patches for shooting. He is teaching young marksmanship won by Bob Charlie the art.

Each one of his shows takes 11 to 13 days to film. He is up gun cases displaying 32 at 6 a.m. in order to get to the firearms, mostly shotguns, studio on time and rarely some of which belonged to his grandfather — Charles Wood, evening.

Six-Year Wrapup Tuesday Night

Johnson Starts White House Roundup

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson starts his final week in office today with some prospect that he might leave to his successor a budget of around $195 billion to operate the government in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

In a nationally televised and broadcast appearance before a joint session of Congress Tuesday at 9 p.m. EST, Johnson will report on the state of the union as he views it after more than six years in office.

Although he can point to a record run of prosperity during his tenure, Johnson may feel impelled to warn against the rising wave of inflation that has pushed bank loan interest rates to a record high and is reflected in the soaring cost of living.

At home Johnson can point to his administration's programs to grapple with the problems of the breakdown of law and order, racial rioting, decaying cities, water and air pollution, and poverty.

In the international area, the President can cite the prospect that the beleaguered Paris talks eventually may lead to an end to the fighting in Vietnam. He can caution the nations that the explosive situation in the Middle East is a potential spark for a general war, but he must defer to the incoming president, Richard M. Nixon, any definitive answer to the Dec. 30 Soviet note proposing U.N. Security Council action to bring about peace.

Johnson is expected to review the nation's achievements in space exploration and to recommend full-scale continuance of that program.

But it is the budget message, which will follow his farewell report, that has been giving the President the most trouble during his final days in the White House.

Both the State of the Union address and the budget message were delayed by Johnson in the hope that he could coax Nixon into taking a public position on extending the 10 per cent income surtax, now scheduled to expire on June 30.

The White House announcement Saturday that Johnson would make his State of the Union address Tuesday was interpreted generally as signaling the failure of efforts to get Nixon to take a stand at this time on the surtax.

Although the President-elect said during the campaign that the tax should be wiped out as soon as the Vietnam war ends, Johnson was reported to have hoped that Nixon wouldn't want to lose the $13 billion revenue it produces annually. The President, who wrung approval of the tax from a balky Congress with the argument that it was needed to combat inflation, also is reported by aides to believe that it is still needed as a check on the rising cost of living.

Johnson is represented as being determined to leave behind a nearly balanced budget. Nixon naturally will make some changes in it, but he would have difficulty altering the basic spending assumptions, a point he himself made last month in a meeting with congressional Republicans.

Lacking any commitment from Nixon, Johnson could adopt the course of recommending a continuance of the tax in some form as a price that he feels it might be necessary to keep expenditures and revenues close together.

Or he could say that the new administration would be courting a deficit if it let the tax expire on schedule June 30 and could give figures supporting this position.

Johnson was represented as being reluctant to make paper reductions in expenditures that he knows Congress won't allow. But he could take that route to avoid recommending an unpopular tax and giving Nixon the chance to say that the Democrats went out in a blaze of taxing and spending.

President and Mrs. Johnson are expected to fly to New York City late today to attend a private dinner at which they will be honor guests.

An Offer and a Threat

Brandeis Talk; Hayakawa Vows Law

By United Press International

The president of Brandeis University has offered to meet today with 65 Negro students he suspended for barricading themselves in the schools' communications building. The president of San Francisco State College says he is prepared to fire union teachers who continue a strike.

The demonstration by 65 black students at Brandeis, a Jewish institution of 2,400 students—about 150 of whom are Negro—at Waltham, Mass., was in its sixth day today. The dissidents seized the communications center to protest alleged "racism" at Brandeis and issued a list of 10 nonnegotiable demands.

President Morris B. Abraham suspended them Saturday. However, he allowed the deadline for their eviction from the communications building to pass and offered to meet alone with the protesters.

Brandeis has said eight of the 10 demands already were school policy, and one demand involving a white student who allegedly shot at a Negro with an air rifle will be handled as a disciplinary matter. The principal demand is for an autonomous department of Afro-American Studies with its own budget and policies. The faculty voted in favor of the demand if the students left Fort Hall.

At San Francisco State, acting President S. I. Hayakawa vowed to carry out a state law providing for the "automatic resignation" of any teacher missing five consecutive days of classes. The American Federation of Teachers, in the sixth day of a strike today, said any dismissals of union teachers would touch off a one-day strike in all state campuses. Hayakawa said it would be "at least Tuesday" before the administration knew whom to fire.

At San Fernando Valley State College in Northridge, Calif., a meeting between acting President Delmar T. Oviatt and the West Coast Director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference produced the first "kernel of hope" since the Nov. 4 arrests of a group of students who took over the administration building, according to the SCLC leader.

The Rev. James Hargett of the SCLC praised Oviatt's "positive position" on the question of amnesty—28 students took 34 hostages when they took over the building, and were indicted for kidnapping, burglary and conspiracy.

Hargett is chairman of a committee formed by the Black Students Union, the United Mexican-American Students, the administration, the faculty and the student body. He also asked Oviatt to consider the amnesty of about 300 students arrested during last week's three days of disturbances at the campus, which is 25 miles north of Los Angeles.

About 24 black students continued a peaceful sit-in Sunday in the admissions office of Swarthmore, a Quaker-affiliated college with 1,024 students in Swarthmore, Pa. The Afro-American Student Society asks more black representation in the school's decisions.

Four Sought In Dutchess Assault Case

POUGHKEEPSIE—Four men were sought by Rhinebeck State Police today for questioning in the reported robbery-assault of an employee at the Hudson River State Hospital.

Sergeant William Urey said George Bajcar, 24, of Staatsburg, was at work in the filtration plant at the state hospital at 8:45 p. m. Saturday when four men entered and assaulted him. Bajcar told authorities his assailants took $5 and made off in an automobile.

BCI Investigator Frank Hallock investigated with hospital police.
